WE APPEAL TO

All Princetonians who are anxious to share their Christmas with others, with others whose marginal ways of life force them to remain in the shadows where Christmas can be just another long, long day.

Because Christmas, particularly in a world torn by fall-out fears and shaken by doubts, is a season for inner as well as for outer joy, and because too seldom do youngsters behind the curtains of despair come to sense that Christmas is also for them, TOWN TOPICS presents the following facts for the consideration of this entire community:

There are in Princeton as many as 75 boys and girls who are the victims of forces and situations they may never grasp. They range in age from infants to 'teenagers and they could well be called Princeton's "forgotten few." While their minimal, every-day needs, such as food, a home of sorts, and coats and rubbers for school, are relieved by the established welfare services, what they need above all else is the assurance that grownups do love children and never more than at Christmas.

The case of 9-year old Karen and Mary, approaching 3, speaks not only for these two beguiling youngsters but for all of the others who seem to sense that heartache is just around the corner. There is a great deal of love in this small, fatherless household but there can be little hope. Several short weeks ago Mrs. G., still as cheerful as the summer sun, returned from the hospital to a bed she will probably never leave. She knows that there are no compromises with cancer in its final stages. Yet she prays that her children, who are all she has in this world, will be cared for and that some day they will understand how desperately they were wanted.

In a dreadfully torn home, in which Alcoholics Anonymous and others have struggled in vain to restore a degree of normalcy, a 'teen-age daughter with "superior intellectual potential" has been tight-roping the abyss of blank despair. Deeply aware of the wedges of mistrust and uncertainty which have driven between her parents for reasons not clear to her, Jane, with help of skilled counselors, is gaining the strength to cope with her reactions to emotional problems that for the past several years have had her teetering between human disaster and the promised land reserved for young men and women of high promise.

And the same would apply to 16-year old Jerry, described by one adviser as a "socially active, outgoing adolescent," whose development in both the scholastic and social senses has been delayed by a chaotic, disruptive environment. He has been battling against overwhelming odds, has helped wherever possible with younger brothers and sisters, and has almost become accustomed to abuses and hardships that are harder to believe in every-day life in Princeton than they are in fiction. To a trained observer, there is growing hope for Jerry, if "we only succeed in evolving an absorbing program of wholesome activities for the next couple of years."

An intense, wonderfully devoted young mother, whose every anxiety is shared by an equally dedicated young husband, can be guided past the breaking-point by an extra pair of hands. Overwhelmed by the combined demands of her infant child, the laboratory schedule necessarily adhered to by her scientist-husband, and the challenges of continuing her own education, Mrs. C. is in dire need of assistance—if she is not going to crack. The same kind of help, is also urgently required by a courageous widow, the mother of 3, with the character and ability to stand alone, provided she survives the shocks of sudden death.

Our "forgotten few" would have to include the two star-crossed brothers, one 13 and the other 10, who even in juvenile courts insist "we have eath other," although their mother is perilously ill and their father cares not a whit for them; the 11-year old, the youngest in a family of 5 children, "with an overpowering desire to be first in everything due to the unavoidable realization that he has been last in so many different ways"; and Dolly, age 8, whose mother writes with the utmost reluctance that "my job covers our household expenses but leaves nothing for her at this time of year."

Amount needed: upwards of $2,000 to enable the Family Service Agency and its allied services to extend to these citizens-of-tomorrow the specialized assistance that will help guide them through their years of bewilderment and will ultimately mean the difference between misery and hope, between apathy and faith in the things which really count.

THIS APPEAL IS MADE ONLY IN TOWN TOPICS. THERE WILL BE NO OTHER SOLICITATION OF ANY KIND AND NO ONE BUT YOU WILL EVER KNOW WHETHER OR NOT YOU PASS IT BY.

Checks should be made payable to The Town Topics Christmas Fund and mailed to TOWN TOPICS, Post Office Box 661, Princeton, N. J.

GAS STATION OPPOSED

At Zoning Hearing. More than 150 persons crowded the Princeton Borough Zoning hearing Thursday night to register opposition to the Atlantic Refining Company's request for permission to build a gas station at the corner of Nassau Street and Markham Road. Borough officials estimated that it was the largest crowd since the "blight" hearings last spring.

In a deferred decision announced following a special session Tuesday night, the Zoning Board rejected the Atlantic Refining Company's request. The application of George H. Sands for a parking variance to permit construction of a five-story office building at 194 Nassau Street, in place of a three-story building for which permission has already been granted, was deferred for further study following the special session. The Sands application, originally scheduled to be heard last Thursday, was postponed because the gas station hearing did not end until past midnight.

The request of W. Coleston and Ardis Leigh for permission to convert the historic "Beatty House" at 19 Vandeventer Avenue into an antique shop was approved by the Zoning Board at its Thursday meeting. Because this is a use variance, involving establishment of a business in a residential zone, the decision must receive final approval from Borough Council.

While Mr. and Mrs. Leigh's application was received in an unusually approving atmosphere, with several residents appearing to speak in favor of the request, the application of the Atlantic Refining Company was greeted with audible jeers from a uniformly hostile audience. These were particularly noticeable when Frank L. Scott, attorney representing the Atlantic company, said that the proposed gas station "would not generate traffic, but would tend to slow traffic down."

Petitions Signed by 484. Opposition to the gas station came from residents of the surrounding area. Lowell F. Curran, Jr., appeared as attorney representing 12 residents. In addition, he presented a series of petitions against the gas station signed by 484 residents of the Borough and Township. A sheaf of letters opposing the station was also received by the board, and when Frank W. Hubby, 3rd, board chairman, asked those opposing the station to stand up, virtually the whole audience arose.

Louis R. Gerber, attorney representing Louis Marcolini, owner of the proposed gas station site, described the hearing as "a Donnybrook." Stating that the Marcolinis needed the money they would receive from selling the land to the Atlantic Refining Company in order to provide for the future, he asked:

"Is is reasonable to deprive these people of the sale of their property?" Whereupon Mrs. C. E. St. John of 29 Wilton Street, a member of the audience, jumped up and declared earnestly, "We're not objecting to their selling the property. We just don't want a gas station!"

Main points made by the opposition were that the proposed site is in a business area prohibiting service stations; that the property is surrounded by residences, and that the presence of a gas station would increase traffic. "Obviously this gas station will draw traffic," Mr. Curran said. "That's why they want to put it there."

Mr. Scott characterized the objections as "not relevant," saying that the fact the location was near a residential area did not matter, and the fact that residents did not care for a gas station in the section was not valid.

"This is not a popularity poll," he said. He also contested the traffic argument, stating that "gas stations don't generate traffic, they go where traffic is."

Restoration Planned. The application of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh regarding the "Beatty House" apparently received approval from residents of the surrounding area because the Leighs plan to restore the house to its original condition. The Nassau Savings and Loan Association, whose request last spring for a variance for the same property was rejected, planned to tear down the building.

Mr. and Mrs. Leigh, who now live in Basking Ridge but who have purchased the J. T. Volibrecht residence at 58 Cleveland Lane, also stated that their antique business would have a limited number of customers, seen by appointment only. The variance granted them specifies that the building can only be used for this type of antique shop.

At the Sands, Associates hearing, William C. Baggitt, representing the firm, presented as his chief witness Leslie Williams, traffic and zoning consultant of Philadelphia, who outlined the various traffic counts he had made in the Nassau - Moore - Park - Vandeventer area, and gave his opinion on the effect a five-story office building would have on traffic.

Behind Khrushchev's
TERROR CURTAIN

by A. N. SPANEL, Chairman
International Latex Corporation

For eight and a half years the embalmed body of Joseph Stalin lay beside Lenin's in the granite Mausoleum on Red Square. But on November first, in the small hours of the night, it was hurriedly removed and cremated, the ashes buried under a slab at the Kremlin wall.

This act of ghoulishness was performed by the heir to Stalin's despotic power, Nikita Khrushchev—as a climax to ferocious attacks on the dead tyrant by his successor and his henchmen at the 22nd Congress of the ruling party of Soviet Russia. With vengeful fury they had described their former master as a fiendish criminal and sadistic mass murderer.

The grim irony of this unholy political drama is that the men who defiled Stalin's memory, then reduced his earthly remains literally to dust, had been his close associates and sycophants. Khrushchev in particular had shared fully in the guilt for the horrors he now gleefully, boastfully, charged to Stalin.

If the current dictator's purpose was to divert attention of the Soviet peoples from his own complicity in the monstrous deeds of the Stalin era, he has failed miserably. The injured remember —and there is hardly a Soviet family that did not know the long terror in its own flesh.

CLIMBING THE SKELETON LADDER

Unlike the outside world, which seems to have forgotten, these people know that Khrushchev was an enthusiastic partner in Stalin's depravities; that he had climbed to power over mountains of corpses; and that he was himself responsible for the torture and death of hundreds of thousands of innocents. History, especially Russian history, will never permit Khrushchev to wash the blood from his hands.

In his zeal to expose Stalin, he was exposing and condemning himself. During the peak years of Stalinist terror, the maniacal years of the blood purges of 1936-38, Khrushchev was the Party boss over Moscow province, the center of the whole grisly operation. His participation in the slaughter knew no bounds. In one of the purge demonstrations, glorifying the killings, Khrushchev exclaimed: "Stalin is our banner! Stalin is our will! Stalin is our victory!"

Sent down to Ukraine, in the summer of 1937, to "clean up" the Party and the government, he arranged the execution of the whole Ukrainian Politburo, the whole Council of Commissars and a majority of the Central Committee of the Party, along with thousands of lesser officials.

Stalin was so well pleased with the "Bolshevik firmness" of his creature that he made him First Secretary of the Ukrainian Party, which is to say the Stalin of that province, with life-and-death authority over its 40 million people. In the 12 years when Khrushchev held that post, which included the war years, the number of those he put to death was estimated as 400,000 — this aside from millions imprisoned, tortured, exiled.

GENGHIS, HITLER, STALIN, KHRUSHCHEV

When the Germans retreated from the Ukraine, in 1943, it was Khrushchev who did the gruesome job of "punishing" the area for its collaboration with the invaders. That purge after the war was even more horrifying in scale and brutality than the pre-war purges. Khrushchev, the "butcher of the Ukraine," joined the select company of great killers through history that counts Nero, Genghis Khan, Hitler and Stalin. In 1956 he added to his bloody laurels by unleashing the tanks that rolled over rebellious Hungary, adding the title of "butcher of Budapest" to his record.

Let there be no mistake about it. This despot, for all his actor's skill at playing "human" roles, was one of the blood-soaked strongmen who carried out Stalin's every macabre order. For from blurring this historic truth, his desecration of Stalin's corpse adds dimensions of bestiality to his personality.

This is the man who has the gall to pose as the avenger of his dead master's crimes! Few such frauds have ever been attempted in all the annals of man's inhumanity to man. Those of us whom he has earmarked for "burial" must never forget the ugly face of the enemy.

Americans should recall with regret that only two years ago we welcomed this super-criminal as an honored guest of our country. We watched him cavorting, threatening, lying, exploiting our political innocence. Then he went home to repay our naive hospitality with jeers and insults.

Though they have no reason to cherish the memory of Stalin, the Russian people assuredly have been shocked by Khrushchev's ghoulish action. A New York Times correspondent, Mr. Seymour Topping, cabled from Moscow:

"This symbolic act induced a common sense of anguish compounded of embarrassment and resentment that public gullibility had been so taxed during the years when Stalin ruled as a virtual demigod. 'It will not happen again,' is a remark heard frequently in official Soviet circles, in Russian homes and on Red Square, where the issue is being debated publicly."

SHOCK TREATMENT

Khrushchev is too wily not to have known that his vengeance upon a corpse would horrify his own subjects. Why, then, did he choose to do it? We will not know for certain until Khrushchev, in his turn, is exposed by his successor. But part of the answer seems clear.

The name of Stalin has become a banner for the leaders of Red China and of its satellites, Albania, North Korea, North Vietnam, in the struggle for primacy in the communist world between Khrushchev and Mao Tse-tung. The eviction of Stalin from the tomb in which he shared the glory of Lenin by association, was therefore a deliberate act of defiance by today's Kremlin-boss. Khrushchev had decided upon shock treatment for his internal enemies.

This is what Mr. C. L. Sulzberger, the gifted journalist of The New York Times, said on the subject: "Note the coincidence of timing—superbomb explosions, increasing rift with China... (and) if there were Chinese official observers at the last two blasts we could deduce that Khrushchev is trying also to frighten Mao Tse-tung and to convince him that, large as its population is, China could never survive atomic war. Mao has been known to boast that even if 300,000,000 Chinese were killed in such a conflict, as many would be left."

In a recent discussion with Mr. Philip Cortney the international monetary expert, he ventured the opinion that Khrushchev knew months in advance the splits and tensions that would take place in the Moscow Congress and he therefore triggered the poisonous nuclear curtain in the hope of spreading paralyzing fear in the Free World, as though to say, "don't get any ideas of moving against us militarily while we publicly claw and tear at each other."

LESSON FOR THE WEST

While imposing the unity of fear upon the closed communist world, his curtain of terror sought to intimidate and immobilize the Great Powers of the free world. And in this he may one day succeed, unless we muster the courage, the will and the wisdom to meet the challenge of communism with a voluntary unity of free peoples as vital as the discipline-by-terror in the enemy camp.

Let there be an end, at long last, to self-delusion in the camp of freedom. Khrushchev is no less bloody and inhuman than Stalin was — and far more dangerous because he has at his disposal immense might; because he is drunk with victories won by our default; because his arrogance is unlimited. Never again must we fall for Moscow blandishments intended to soften us physically and disarm us psychologically — for fraudulent slogans like "peaceful coexistence." On this score the French are wide-awake for they are not yet conditioned as we are by Pavlov's propaganda techniques, hence they refuse to rush into new meetings with Khrushchev knowing he is committing aggression in Germany and for that matter, on the very air we breathe.

Khrushchev and his barbarian hordes despise and exploit our credulity and false optimism. They know only the morality of naked power. Unity of our Free World in depth and in breadth—economic, military, political, diplomatic—geared to cleareyed understanding of godless communism, continues to be the most vital element in the structure of Western power.

BOARD FRAMES REPORTS

On Water. In his chronological report on the water situation, presented Thursday to the Township Board of Health, Dr. William Kleinberg, Board chairman, stated that so far as he knew, the Township Board of Health was the first party to notify the State Board of Health of the Princeton water problem.

Dr. Kleinberg said that he and Mrs. Marcella Farley, Acting Health Officer, agreed to call the state on Friday, approximately a day and half after the problem was first noticed late Wednesday afternoon.

Dr. Kleinberg also said in comment on his report that the Princeton Water Company insisted that the trouble was excess chlorine although "they must have known all along that it was not chlorine; they measure chlorine content by weight, and know just how much they put into the water."

In her report, Mrs Farley said that she tested Township Hall's tap water for chlorine on Thursday, the first full day of the crisis, and found no chlorine present.

She also stated that she took samples of the water to University chemists for bacteriological analysis on Thursday, but that no results were available two days later, on Saturday.

Dr. Kleinberg, in another verbal comment on his written reports, told the Board of Health that the water company was insisting that the water was potable before any tests had been completed.

The chronological reports show that Dr. Wilbur York and Dr. Thomas Harvey were both asked to test the water for chlorine and that both found chlorine present. Dr. Elmer Alpert, Health Board member, questioned the company's wisdom in taking its sample to a clinical laboratory (Dr. Harvey's) which would not ordinarily have equipment to do the kind of testing required.

The Board expressed its dismay over the fact that state law does not give local Boards of Health any jurisdiction over local water companies.

Lethal? "Suppose this had been a lethal thing?" suggested Dr. Erling Dorf of the Board. "How could we on the Board say, 'This is no responsibility of ours?' " The water company never handled this as though it were an emergency, and I think they got off luckily."

Harvey S. Moore, Jr., assistant Township attorney, said that if a water crisis arose again, the Township Board of Health should notify the state as soon as possible.

The problem of local responsibility was scheduled to be discussed Wednesday at a meeting between state offcials and the Potable Water Commission.

At the conclusion of its meeting, the Board adopted a policy on water emergencies which it has announced to the Princeton Water Company in a letter. According to this new policy, the Board will notify state health authorities of a possible water emergency after any three consecutive calls to the Board complaining of bad taste or odor in the water.

The Board of Health had prepared the two reports for presentation to Township Committee, but Committee received them too late for discussion at Monday night's meeting.

Mr. Williams told the Zoning Board that, allowing for four stories of offices totalling 24,000 square feet, and a ground floor of retail stores totalling 6,000 square feet, the Sands building would have about 100 employees, of whom slightly more than half would drive cars to work. The rest, he said, would walk, take a bus, come in a car-pool or be driven to work.

The zoning ordinance requires the Sands Building to have 89 parking spaces. Of these, 21 can be fitted into the property; the other 68 were requested by Sands Associates as "allocations"; that is, they would presumably have to come out of the Nassau East parking area planned by the Borough.

How Many Cross? Mr. Williams said that about 200 of the 626 children at Nassau Street school cross Nassau at Moore and he told the Board that he did not regard the intersection as hazardous for children either now, or in the future if the office building were constructed, because of the protection offered by the traffic policeman and the school patrols, and the wide visibility of the intersection.

Continuing his count-down, Mr. Williams told the Board that approximately 800 cars — 400 east and 400 west — traversed Nassau at the Moore Street corner during one hour, and that 200 went in and out of Moore in that time.

In response to cross-examination by Mr. Curran, representing Edmund D. Cook, would depend on the kinds of offices there: dentists and doctors would produce more traffic than business firms, he pointed out.

He said, however, that this would not mean more traffic on Nassau because visitors to the building would use the Nassau East lot.

Using his figures as a base, he said he believed that Nassau Street, between Chestnut and Vandeventer, was below its "working capacity" in automobile traffic.

The Parking Problem. He told the Board that Bellows, on the corner of Nassau and Moore, a store occupying about the same 6,000 square footage as the proposed Sands retail stores, had no parking provisions at all. He said that he believed the only solution to the parking problem was the Borough lot.

Broadening the scope of his comments, Mr. Williams said he thought that the development of the Moore-Vandeventer block on Nassau would be a "bonanza" to the Borough.

He pointed to the Cox Building and the Maple Building as structures which could be replaced to the Borough's tax benefit, and said that, by developing the block, the Borough could stabilize the end of the business zone at St. Paul's Church.

Robert F. Mooney, Borough clerk, who also appeared as witness, presented the Borough's Nassau East parking ordinance which was offered in evidence by Mr. Baggitt. He said that the hold-outs in the Nassau East lot were Dr. Louis Rampona, Edmund Cook and Charles Weigel.

Also approved at the Thursday hearing was the application of Allen Ti Chang for permission to build a second-floor extension on his shop, the Kung Ping Trading Co., Inc., at 15 Witherspoon Street.

ROUND-UP

Fortune Magazine began last July to research an article on Princeton commuters, finally published it in its December issue . . . in the intervening time, researchers and author failed to iron out a few inaccuracies.

Among them: a totally nonexistent certified dairy farm, assigned to the somewhat surprised Bernard Kilgore . . . a picture of the Sherley W. Morgan home on Hodge Road captioned as the residence of J. Richardson Dilworth . . . a low (by 20 percent) estimate of the town's population . . . inaccurate mileage figures ("two miles to Princeton Junction, six to Belle Mead")... incorrect names ("Gerald" for Gerard Lambert) . . . mention of Springdale Golf Club's "275" members, rather than the existing 350 . . . and more in the same vein.

The article reports in interesting fashion on the residential charm accorded the commuter who willingly spends 15 hours a week and travels more than 100 miles a day so that he may live in Princeton . . . however, the slick-stock city people could have done with a little old-fashioned country-style accuracy prior to publication.

As the anniversary of that big (17-inch) snowstorm of December 12, 1960, neared, the Weather Bureau had the courage to predict an unseasonably mild December for 1961 . . . all the snow that fell last year (it was the heaviest storm before winter actually began in about 200 years) will be replaced by generally mild temperatures through Christmas. . .

November, the statisties show, was about normal in temperature, but below average in rainfall . . . only 2.13 inches (including a touch of snow) was recorded, about 40 percent below normal . . . highest temperature for the month was 80 on November 4, lowest, 19 on the 11th.

Longer parking is now permissible on Palmer Square in the unmetered areas around the post office . . . to facilitate Christmas mailing, post office patrons may park for an hour, instead of the customary 15 minutes . . . but Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan warns that the 60-minute limit will be strictly enforced.

The Princeton Circle of the Florence Crittenton Mission has expressed its appreciation for the gifts of food received before Thanksgiving for the girls' home it helps maintain in Trenton . . . Judy Taylor, a sophomore at MacMurray College, is among those pictured in a feature article on holiday dresses in this month's "Mademoiselle" . . . she is the daughter of Mrs. Earl Taylor, 176 Loomis Court.

An acquaintance read about the Albatross population on the Naval air base at Midway Island, and he said that the doings of birds continue to amaze him.

These large, gull-like birds see no reason why they should not use the Navy's landing strips for their own mass take-offs and landings. Result: Hundreds of collisions between birds and jets.

After noise, smoke, and other ideas failed to scare them off the Navy figured that if they could find them another suitable home area they could type a set of orders and transfer the lot of them. So they gathered up and flew several hundred of them in style to a nice island about 5,000 miles away. But before they could assemble the next batch at Midway Island the first bunch calmly flew in from their 5,000 mile return journey to make perfect one point landings on the Navy's strips.

Our friend said that trained homing pigeons seldom fly a return course of more than 1,000 miles, but here is a case of birds finding their way back over 5,000 trackless ocean miles, as though it were no trick at all.

How the birds do it is a mystery not to be solved by mere humans. But there is no mystery about our devotion to serving your best interests. Please, may we serve you? Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

CURTAIN GOING UP

On Triangle Show. Looking backward over the past 50 years with the objectivity of people who weren't even born then, Triangle Club members will offer "Tour de Farce" to an opening night audience in McCarter Theatre this Thursday. Curtain time: 8.30.

There will also be "Tour" performances this Friday and Saturday at the same time and Saturday at 2:30.

This year's show has no book and no unifying plot. There will be 20 musical numbers, dialogue and pantomime skits and everything will be, in the words of Triangle's president, "organized disorder."

Among the numbers will be a song spoofing 14-year-old movie stars (inspiration: Tuesday Weld), and a grandiose production number poking fun at the "Broadway Melody of. . . ," movies of the late '20's in which the ingenue takes the star's place on opening night and wins both acclaim and the hero.

There is also a song called "The 12th Day of Christmas" in which a group of diplomats sing "On the first day of Christmas Nikita gave to me. . . " and so on.

Then, as the revue proceeds, audiences will hear about the nostalgic old days of the 1950's, and the even more nostalgic old days of burlesque in the years before World War I. In this last number, the traditional Triangle chorus-girl kick line will expose itself to public view.

The 45-member cast of "Tour" will tour west, starting December 19, having played New Haven and Washington and Plainfield following the Princeton appearances.

TRIANGLE'S READY TO OPEN: Four performances are scheduled this weekend for the Triangle Club's latest production, "Tour de Farce," before show takes off on the first transcontinental tour in its history. Here, Joe Mintun leads a skit as a Balloon Man.

PROJECTED EVENTS

Films at McCarter. A Short-Film Festival, with speakers from the film world, will launch McCarter Guild's December series on the film.

The Festival will be held from December 13 to 16, and will begin with "The Animated Film," illustrated by "Fuddy Duddy Buddy" and "Moonbird," both Academy Award winners, and two other shorts, "Neighbors" and "A Short Vision."

The narrator for this group will be John Hubley, only American winner at this year's San Francisco International Film Festival.

On December 14, the Guild will present Gregorio Prestopino and "Art in Film." The artist will show his own "Harlem Wednesday" plus "The Drawings of Leonardo da Vinci" and "Goya."

Documentaries Included. The following day, the Festival will continue with "The Poetic Documentary" with David Vaughan, film critic of "Sight and Sound" magazine and editor of the McCarter Guild "Bulletin."

Mr. Vaughan will show and discuss "Muscle Beach," "Every Day Except Christmas" and "A Diary for Timothy." The Festival will conclude December 16 with selections from the previous programs.

The series of three programs may be purchased for $1.50. Individual admission is $.75. All showings will be at 8:30 in McCarter.

The Guild has on its agenda the appearance of Pete Seeger, folk-singer, who will appear at midnight Friday following the Triangle Club show. Seats are $2.90.

Next Monday, the New York production of Ibsen's "Ghosts" will be the McCarter attraction. Seats remain at $4.50, $4 and $3.50.

FOUR PROGRAMS CHOSEN

For Children's Series. The Traveling Playhouse company will present "Greensleeves' on January 9 in McCarter Theatre as the first of four productions in this year's Children's Entertainment Series, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association of Princeton Borough Schools.

Other productions will be "The Wizard of Oz," February 6; "The Red Thunder Cloud and His Indian Dancers," March 20 and "Niccolo and Nicollette," May 8. The Traveling Playhouse company will give "The Wizard of Oz."

"Niccolo and Nicollette" will be presented by the Equity Library Theatre. It was judged the best play of 1961 for children by the Children's Theatre Conference. The Indian group will present dances, songs, legends, games and crafts of American Indians.

The four productions make up the 30th season of the Children's Entertainment program. They are intended for children in grades one through eight.

Tickets may be ordered by mail from Mrs. Wayne V. O'Neill, 115 Lafayette Road. Season tickets are priced at $1.85, $3.50 and $5.50. Single tickets are $.60, $1.00 and $1.50.

Carter Theatre. Entitled "Face of the Soviet," the film will be narrated by Raymond Dinsmore.

Mr Dinsmore made the film during a 5,000-mile trip through the USSR and East Germany. He will appear in person at McCarter to comment on the film. The Soviet republics of Tadjikstan, Uzbekistan, Georgia and the Ukraine are featured, as well as the cities of Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev and the former Stalingrad.

Mr. Dinsmore is a well-known film lecturer. He was the only civilian permitted aboard the USS Nautilus, a nuclear submarine, on its first trip. Mr. Dinsmore made a film record of the sub's maiden voyage. Tickets for the Soviet film are availble at the Princeton University Store.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Susan Slade (December 6-12) Mere words cannot describe how bad this picture is. Perhaps a plot summary will suffice. Susan Slade (Connie Stevens) is a virtuous girl who makes only one mistake. Her illegitimate child is claimed by her parents (Lloyd Nolan and Dorothy McGuire) as their own to save the family name.

IT CAN'T BE—BUT IT IS: Troy Donahue and Connie Stevens, co-starred in "Parrish," make it two in a row with their teaming in "Susan Slade," technicolor soap opera continuing through Tuesday at the Playhouse. Lloyd Nolan and Dorothy McGuire are co-starred in the melodrama.

After the father's death due to a heart attack, Susan is pursued by two suitors (Troy Donahue and Bert Convy). The child catches on fire (real flames), and during the ensuing disaster its mother is forced to own up. One suitor is horrified and runs out, but the other (Donahue, naturally) insists that nothing matters but his love and remains true blue.

"Susan Slade" might just be the worse movie ever made. It is certainly the worst of this year (even "Spartacus" had Peter Ustinov and Jean Simmons).

Delmer Dawes produced and directed from his own screenplay, so he must bear the responsibility. In technicolor and tears.

Paris Blues (December 13-19). After exploring the seamy side of America's poolrooms in "The Hustler," busy Paul Newman takes on a tour of the gloomy side of Paris in another off-beat, and well-acted film. Sidney Poiter and Joanne Woodward are co-starred in the artistic Sam Shaw production.

"Paris Blues" is the story of two American jazz expatriates who are trying to create a new form of music. They fall in love, and the question of staying or leaving becomes their major decision to make. However, the plot is subservient to brilliant individual scenes, such as the degradation of a dope-addict guitarist or the musical duel between Newman and Louis Armstrong (again reminiscent of "The Hustler").

THE GARDEN

Secrets of Women (December 6-9) is another of the old-new pictures of Ingmar Bergman. Although produced in 1952, the film has just now made its way to the United States. Many of the themes that Bergman was to explore later in "The Seventh Seal" and "The Virgin Spring" are here in embryonic form.

The film concerns five women who sit around a country home, waiting for their husbands to arrive. They pass the time by telling stories about their marital affairs. Of the three episodes (one woman doesn't know anything, and the other is merely an observer), the first is played for laughs, while the second is serious, and the third and best, a penetrating insight into life.

All the Bergman actors are here, and do fine jobs under their talented director. The picture ends with a nice twist, and is pleasant and entertaining. Its comments on human relationships are clever and universally applicable, without the darkness of Bergman's later problems. Rating: early (and unusual) Bergman.

IN GHOSTS: Leueen MacGrath will be starred in the Ibsen drama Monday at McCarter.

Call Me Genius (December 10-16) is a British farce starring Tony Hancock, one of England's top television comedians, in his film debut. The picture takes humorous digs at all types of society, from the organization man to art connoisseurs and beatniks.

The plot concerns a conventional London clerk who suddenly decides that Gaughin had the right idea. He quits his job and goes to Paris with all the fervor of the great artist's dedication. Unfortunately, he has none of the great artist's talent. He still manages to hoodwink the art world, and returns home with a magnificent exit line.

Hancock is a zany, but assured comic, thoroughly at ease with the script provided by Alan Simpson and Ray Galton, who have been his writers for eight years. Margit Saad adds female loveliness, and George Sanders adds incompetent acting. Rating: delightful fun.

COME PLAY WITH ME

In Toyland, Preferably. Just to keep them quiet and get them out of the house for awhile, let's begin our toy hobby column with something for the boys.

Zinder's set them up with Electric Roadway Sports Car Rally: 18' of straight track, and 16' of curved, and the equipment for 11 layouts of world-famous race courses with remote control. And spills, probably.

At the same store and also at Mall Camera, you'll find the Mercer Race-About with cama-matic action that provides four different cams which will steer the racer straight, in a circular pattern, an S-pattern or in a pattern which you to fill in yourself (this last means that you cut your own into the dise of the cam.)

With this, you also get flashing lights, a real motor sound and brass-plated accessories. Watch little brother steal this one.

Ho! Mall has HO trains and accessories and those gas-motored flying airplanes you hear all over town on Christmas morning. Radio and Hobby has planes to fly, too Kesler and Bellis, in Hopewell, has Remco's "Johnny Reb," with 3' cannon, ramrod, loading chamber, cannon balls and flag. The stillness at Appomattox comes later.

For some real noise, look at Tiger's Magic Marxis, an M-14 U. S. Infantry rifle with recoiling barrel and recoiling parents, too, we have no doubt.

Lionel, having observed the fate of the New Haven, has become diversified. At Tiger and at Creative Playthings, you'll find the Lionel Inventor Series, which offers Edison's prototype lamp, Morse's telegraph, Galileo's telescope, Gutenberg's press, and Hero's steam turbine.

You build all these things, they all work, and they are all as educational as the dickens.

Slant 6, V-8. The motorized Slant 6 engine is Radio and Hobby's suggestion, but they have the Visible V-8 engine, too. So does Creative Playthings.

Lionel also makes a weather station which you build from a kit. Wet-dry bulb thermometers, charts, wind-speed indicators and direction indicators, all at Creative Playthings. The same shop has an electric drafting desk and Draft-A-Plan kit which provides blueprint papers, tools and an electrically lit board.

Kesler and Bellis has Lakeside's electric "Custom Styling for Boys" which is a similar drafting kit.

If Sonny wants a hobby for fun and profit, he can grow live brine shrimp from Creative Plything's kit (tank, food, shrimp eggs, tabasco sauce. . no, no. . . log for recording data, and so on.) What profit you can make from live brine shrimp, we leave to Sonny. Fun to grow, though.

Those anatomical kits, The Seeing Eye, The Listening Ear and The Sense of Touch are fascinating for boy or girl. Radio and Hobby has them and so does Creative Playthings.

To Wear. Clothes for boys this year might come from Robert Hall on Route One, where a double-breasted sports jacket and blazer in high style olive, black, navy or tweed, is $18.95. (Alterations free.)

A popcorn knit zip-front sweater is $3.99, zipping all the way up to the edge of a turtle neck, in charcoal with grey and red.

For little boys, Robert Hall has $4.99 shirt-trouser sets in royal and navy, or checked knit and solid pants. For $1.89 you can have sports shirts in knit, or solid or checked woven styles.

"Midnight Sun" is the boys' sweater line at Allen's, and as you have guessed these are Scandanavian patterned sweaters, in olives, golds and rusts blended to look like the aurora borealis, or in striking black, red and white geometrics.

A white turtle-neck at Allen's looks like those Irish sailing sweaters. The sweater shelves at Allen's are a blaze of red, gold, grey, black, white —every color and style and pattern you can imagine.

But you may prefer a knit orlon-wool washable shirt in bright red, maize, gold or blue Allen's has these, too.

Boots and Saddle. Cowboys' Hubt's likes to sell cowboy boots at Christmas. The 1961 boot—1960's having been worn out through months in the saddle—is black with that ole Texas tooling. Sizes 8½-3. $6.95.

An after-ski boot for boys sizes 1-6 has moccasin toe, plaid lining and leather thong fastening. Maybe it's an after-hockey boot, in that case, look at the $18.95 skates first.

Bellows imports from Switzerland a thick, wavy-knit pull-

All Hands

Young people who like to work with their hands will find lots to do under the Christmas tree this year.

Zinder's has the Magi-Cutter kit with saw and styrofoam plastic to use for making all kinds of designs. Little girls, without the inclination to saw, can learn how to make samples from Mall Camera's Betsy Ross early American kit.

Stuff 'n Nonsense has the magnificent Lego assortment of snap plastic blocks, made by the Samsonite luggage people. Build gas stations, including the pumps, make a dog, a camel, a lighthouse, a clock, and nobody can knock it down because it's all snapped together to STAY (You, of course, can unsnap it easily, whenever you wish.)

Buy a $1.95 or a $2.95 set, and 50c refills whenever pieces get lost or chewed by the dog. Greatest construction toy we've seen in a good many years.

over in natural wool, with crew neck, for $18.95. A Swiss wool and mohair pullover, classic as the crew itself, is $17.95.

A dark orlon sweater has a bright rampant lion on the chest, and there is a red-white-blue turtle for skiing, with a raglan effect in the shoulder.

The red viyella shirt is a Christmas standby at Bellows. It's $11.95, nd comes in Tattersall, too. Cotton flannels in plaid are $3.95.

Can you resist those knit face helmets? We like this year's because they are made with bright red moustaches and eyebrows.

SPICE, YES, BUT SUGAR? Girls, It's Yours. Most of the little girls we know have more spice than sugar; in fact, it's hard sometimes to separate the boys' toys from the girls' toys, as any boy will tell you, with feeling, after his sister has made her own pattern on his one blank cam wheel.

To forestall, get her Kesler and Bellis' Betsy McCall's Fashion Designers Electric Set with electric drafting board. She can also make "Nina the Ballerina," from the same shop, working with bulky strands of wool. "Pierre the Poodle" can be done in the same way.

Stuff 'n Nonsense has delicious little wooden dolls that are exact imitations of the dolls that Colonial children used to play with, carved of wood with hook-eye joints, pantaloons and calico dresses. $1.50 each.

Freckles and a pony tail characterize an appealing doll whose eyes roll from side to side. She is dressed in pink gingham and comes from Effenbee.

Pal. A friend, also on the Stuff shelf, is much younger, being a large baby doll with soft, straight hair and a Madame Alexander label.

Betsy McCall is an eight-incher equipped with evening gowns, riding habit, ballet costume, pajamas, a summer outfit and winter-red tights. Stuff has her for $2.98 with basic underwear. From there on out, you buy the various dress kits.

Thorne's Betsy Wetsy also drinksie-winksies, criesis-weisies and weepsie-peepsies. Real tears. She has clothes and real hair, and Thorne's offers her at $6.98.

At Kesler and Bellis, the doll is Casper, the Friendly Talking Ghost, $9. (Money talks). Pull a string and he spews out 11 ghostly messages. Matty, the Talking Boy; Chatty Cathy and Sister Belle all have their say, too.

Maybe these have their 11 messages, but Kung Ping's kokeshi doll from Japan has three heads. (This does not mean 33 messages, however.) Each of the three has a different expression and hairdo, which is remarkable considering the fact that each doll is only fuur inches high.

Such a family brings responsibilities, and Allen's is prepared to help fulfil them with a collection of furniture. Thayer makes a pair of captains' chairs and table in maple-finished birth for $29.98. Or, you may have maple-finished maple with armchairs, captain style, for the same price. Sturdy, bang-'em-up children's furniture, every piece of it.

Look at the rockers for lulling dolly to sleep. There's a white one with gold, a black for proper Bostonians, a maple one with upholstery, one without. Some are musical, some are silent. just ask Allen's.

Tea or Milk? A little roll-top desk, for boy or girl, is $24.95, complete with cubby-holes and chair. A flat-top desk has a swivel chair, which probably means it's for a boy. Executive, you know.

Serve tea on the table, or coffee-break on the desk, from Stuff's milk-glass hobnail tea set. Strictly antique.

Creative Playthings has, of course, a large collection of children's furniture, much of it designed for nursery schools or kindergartens. We were amused to see a toy washtub and washboard. Think any little girl would know what they for?

Little girls who would like a holiday party dress might begin by shopping at the Angeline Shop, Hopewell, for a black velvet dress, sleeveless, flaring at the bottom with just a tiny satin binding to accent the long line. It's size 8-14.

A more grown-up party girl might choose the white chiffon

Any Dentists Here?

Our favorite Christmas toy "for young and old," as they say, is the Tantalizer at Stuff 'n Nonsense.

This game consists of a steel mirror, a black shield and pencils, papers, pipes, hooks and eyes, marbles, little boards with holes and so on.

You stand up the black shield at one end of the little box, so you can't see what you're doing, and put the steel mirror at the other end.

Then in the space between you try to place marbles in the proper holes, hook up eyes with hooks, draw certain designs and so on, guided only by the reflection of your hands in the mirror. No peeking over the shield!

Although designed for children, Tantalizer has certain obvious cocktail party qualifications: if it's hard to draw while looking in a mirror, think how it would be after a round of highballs.

Incidentally, dentists are are terrific at this game.

skirt with black sleeveless velvet top, or the aqua and blue sleeveless with matching lace bolero.

Clothes Line has the classic red or blue velveteen with round collarless neck, this time, and a touch of frothy lace at sleeves only.

A Swiss smock dress for sizes 2-5 at The Clothes Line has red berries and green leaves embroidered on fine white cotton.

Bellows' new Bill Atkinson line begins with an olive velvet princess dress with round neckline and matching princess wool felt coat lined with blue calico. Dress is $17.95, coat $37.95, in sub-teen sizes.

Am I Invited? Allen's sub-teen party group has a peach dacron organdy for $14.98 with front waist bow, sash and modest (this is for mother) neckline.

Dresses here follow a pattern: full skirt, slightly boat-neck bodice, cap sleeves. The variants are in the fabric: a blue-green organza print with royal taffeta sash; a brilliant lime with pleated skirt and cowl back; a silvery beige brocade with rosette at the belt line; a black velvet top with white-black lime plaid pleated skirt.

Allen's prices are in the $14.98 range, reasonable enough—as mother is—to allow more than one party dress.

For younger girls, Allen's suggests the white organdy with red sash and collar and embroidered red reindeer and

ON STRIKE: Two pickets pause in their back-and-forth patrol of the Princeton A & P as the meat-cutters remained out on strike. The possibility of a long strike—until after Christmas, according to one union member—remained strong at mid-week. (Staff Photo) had developed between management and the negotiating team for the Amalgamated Meat Cutters Local 56 of Camden.

Union membership rejected the A & P proposal for contract changes including a $9 weekly pay increase spread over two years. Meat cutters now receive $112 a week and weighers and wrappers $80.

The walkout last Friday was directed only against the A & P, but Acme and Food Fair markets also closed their meat departments. The union charged that this constituted a lockout by Acme and Food Fair, but the two chains said that a strike against A & P was actually a strike against them, because all three are covered by the same union contract.

Members of the Retail Clerks Union refused to cross picket lines at the A & P. Employees at the managerial level ran the Princeton A & P for a time on Saturday, but began closing the store as the day wore on. The doors were still closed at press time.

Supermarkets and chains throughout the Trenton-Philadelphia area have shut down. Independent markets report some increase in business as a result of the strike, but they say it is hard to trace definitively.

Shoppers were faced with a possible meat shortage because local suppliers who do not supply the big super-markets, may not have enough meat for the smaller stores' increased demand.

ENGSTROM NAMED HEAD

Of RCA. Dr. Elmer W. Engstrom of 181 Library Place, senior executive vice-president of RCA since 1955, has been named president of the giant company. He succeeds John L. Burns, president since March 1957, who resigned for personal reasons.

Dr. Engstrom joined RCA in 1931 and in the ensuing years advanced steadily in the company's executive ranks. In his progressive climb to the top position, "Dr. Engstrom has demonstrated an unusual blend of business, administrative and scientific abilities," said David Sarnoff, Chairman of the Board.

Dr. Engstrom was born in Minneapolis, Minn. in 1901. He received a BSEE at the University of Minnesota in 1923 and had the honorary degree of Doctor of Science conferred on him in 1949 by New York University. Following his graduation, he became associated with the General Electric Company. In 1930, the radio engineering and manufacturing activities of GE were transferred to RCA.

When all research activities of RCA were centered in Princeton in 1942, Dr. Engstrom became Director of General Research. His rise was steady: 1943, Director of Research of RCA Laboratories; 1945, vice-president in charge of research; 1951, vice-president in charge of RCA Laboratories Division; 1954, executive vice-president of the Division; and 1955, senior executive vice-president.

In Princeton, Dr. Engstrom is a trustee of Princeton Hospital, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the YMCA, treasurer of the YMCA-YWCA Corporation, and trustee of the Westerly Road Church. He is a past chairman of the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross and past president of the Princeton Rotary Club.

HEARINGS CONTINUE

On "Mansgrove." The fifth hearing in the "Mansgrove Gardens" series will be held at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, December 21, at the regular meeting of the Township Zoning Board.

The fourth hearing was held last Friday. When Russell Van Cleve, Zoning Board Chairman, asked whether the "Mansgrove" presentation would be finished in time to "get us out of the trenches by Christmas," he was told that this was unlikely.

Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Turner are asking for a variance to construct 126 garden apartment units on the land they own between Jefferson and Mount Lucas Roads. A stub of the property faces Valley Road.

The Turners' counsel, J. Seymour Montgomery, presented, under subpoena, Gerald W. Breese, chairman of the Township Planning Board. Attempting to show that the imprecise location of the Terhune Road extension worked hardship on the Turners in trying to sell their land, Mr. Montgomery asked Mr. Breese about the status of the road.

The line of questioning was protested by Theodore T. Tams Jr., representing the Hillcrest Civic Association, and sustained by the Board under the advice of Hervey S. Moore, Jr., Assistant Township Attorney, on the grounds that it was irrelevant to the situation.

Repeated attempts by Mr. Montgomery to introduce various maps and Planning Board reports were also rejected by the Board.

These documents included the working manuscript on multiple housing prepared by Jack Kendree associates, Planning Board consultant; the March, 1961, report of the road committee and various municipal maps.

"These maps and reports represent a consensus of opinion from many different people and are inadmissible," Mr. Van Cleve said.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Mr. Montgomery indicated that he might subpoena the people who had made and signed the reports in order to get the information contained in the reports into the record.

AVIATION CADET KILLED

In Plane Crash. Marine Aviation Cadet Daniel P. Kelley, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kulley of Crescent Avenue, Rocky Hill, died Thursday, November 30, when a training plane in which he was a passenger collided with with another training plane in the air about 15 miles north in Pensacola, Fla.

The two planes came down in a densely wooded area. Each carried an instructor and a student pilot. All four were killed. Officials at Whiting Naval Auxiliary Air Station, where Mr. Kulley was based, said the crash is under investigation.

Parking Lot Protested.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

A public hearing will be held Tuesday, December 12, by the Borough Council on the ordinance which provides for the purchase of property on Park Place facing Madison Street. This proposed purchase is to provide entrance and exit for a large municipal parking lot, between Moore Street and Vandeventer, behind the row of business properties on Nassau.

This parking lot has been a subject of controversy for many years and in fact in 1953 was rejected by the voters in a borough-wide referendum.

Residents of Park Place, Madison, Vandeventer, Moore, Wiggins, Greenview, Humbert and Jefferson have fresh cause for alarm at the prospect of the opening of their streets to an increase of traffic and trucking and a further encroachment by commercial enterprise.

Adjacent to the block containing the proposed site of the parking lot are the two elemetary schools in the Borough. Parents of school children throughout the Borough, as well as the residents of central Princeton, should be seriously concerned about the effects of the proposed ordinance. Should it be passed, it is conceivable that a visitor to Princeton in 1970 might find, in place of this neighborhood of well-kept homes with trees and lawns, the dense area of "business & services" mapped out in the "Master Plan."

It is ironic that a proposal intended to reduce the present congestion of traffic in Princeton may have an opposite effect, forcing people to move so far from the center of town that they must drive where they now walk.

It is clear that the proposal to be considered in public hearing Tuesday evening is merely one aspect of a much larger issue. In view of the widespread, manifested disapproval of "Urban Renewal" and the "Master Plan," it would seem reasonable of the Council to defer this crucial question and allow time for further study of its implications, by the Planning Board.

The public hearing December 12 offers citizens their only opportunity to voice their feelings and to stem the tide which threatens to destroy the character of Princeton as a residential college community.

Music Review Criticized.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Unquestionably, courtesy should be an essential of criticism. The person who reviewed Miss Sutherland's concert for you failed abysmally in that respect, as well as in his evaluation of the concert if the standing ovation which Miss Sutherland received was indicative of the audience's reaction.

Did he mean, literally, that Miss Sutherland's trill was a wondrous thing to behold? It seems an unusual way to express the one unqualified tribute paid to her singing. Miss Sutherland may not be the prima donna of the ages but I would rate her superior to your critic.

Board's Proposal Backed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Since my remarks at the Borough Board of Education meeting last Tuesday night were reported as a "criticism," and since I am a candidate for election to the Board, I should appreciate your allowing me to clarify my position. I was correctly reported, for it is true that I commented on traffic problems that the building of a school on the Franklin Avenue site, next to the High School, will raise. These and other disadvantages must be accepted, however, since they are very much overbalanced by the long-run advantages that the proposal offers.

I knew nothing of the Board's plans until they were made public. When I filed my candidacy a month ago, it was from a general interest in the Princeton public schools, and not with any expectation of taking a stand on the present issue.

After considering all aspects of the question as I see them, whatever the future development of the Princeton schools may be, I conclude that the purchase of these eighteen acres is a step in the right direction. I hope very much that all citizens of Princeton will strongly support the Borough Board of Education in the steps necessary to acquire this property.

OF SEWERS AND SPACE

Committee Hears Both. The problem of "keeping Princeton Princeton" and the related problem of treating property owners fairly were both discussed with heat and length at Township Committee Monday night.

Appearing to protest his assessment for the Rosedale Road-Galbreath Drive East and West sewers, Alexander Ettl of Ettl Farm, told Committee that he wanted to preserve his farm as it is, and not subdivide it, ever.

"I despise subdivisions," Mr. Ettle said.

He told Committee, however, that he might eventually have to subdivide if assessments and taxes drove him into a difficult financial position.

The Board of Improvement Assessors told him, when they assessed him for the sewer, that it "improved" his property. Mr Ettl challenged this, saying that he did not need the sewer. The assessors told him that, if he subdivided, the new houses would have a sewer to connect into and could, therefore, be sold more profitably.

When Mr. Ettl told the Assessors and Committee that he had no intention of subdividing, he was told that a subsequent owner of his property might subdivide.

"The improvement goes with the property, and not with the plans of the present property owner," Mayor R Kenneth Fairman told him.

Me, Too. Residents of Herrontown Road and Herrontown Circle also protested their sewer assessments.

Bertrand L. Gulick, Jr., 1082 Princeton-Kingston Road, told Committee that the Board of Health had been "too hasty" in pushing sewers throughout the Township, and should have tried, instead, to correct the small problems that spurted up here and there.

Mr. Gulick also took the Township to task for the route chosen for the Herrontown sewer, and said that an easier, cheaper one might have been selected.

"I hate like the dickens to pay that $2,200 assessment," he said, "I'd rather wait until January 2 and then contribute that amount to the Township. I'd come out better on my income tax."

Taking issue with Mr. Gulick, Committeeman John S Mount said that three or four meetings held with Herrontown residents over a period of time, and that this could hardly be called "haste."

He also cited figures to show thta original estimates of cost for the sewer lines were close to the actual, finished cost.

No Need. Robert J Higgins, 256 Herrontown Road, and Charles F. Westoff, 221 Herrontown Road, told Committee that they had excellent septic systems and did not need the sewer for which they were being assessed.

Mrs. Higgins' house is 455 feet from the road and Mr. Westoff's is 300 feet from the road. Both property owners challenged the assessors' "enhanced value" concept of assessment for their properties. Mr. Westoff said that, when he pointed out to assessors that his property was too far to hook into the sewer economically, he was told that, some time in the future, another owner might move into his house.

Harold Berkert, 26 Herrontown Circle, said that the Acting Health officer of the Township had given out false information, confusing a natural spring on his property with sewage effluent. He protested the $1398 assessment levied on his 100-front-foot property, and asked Committee to subsidize the $800-odd of that amount which represents his share of the cost of the pump.

Mr. Berkert claimed that, if an alternate route had been taken, the pump would not have been required. Committeeman William Marvel said that, on the contrary, the costs of acquiring easements over the route suggested by Mr. Gulick, would have made the overall costs even higher.

"It is becoming too expensive for people like me to live in Princeton," Mr Berkert warned Committee, "and I've lived here for 20 years."

Committee approved the Rosedale - Galbreath assessments, but tabled the Herrontown assessments for further consideration.

Committee approved, 4-1, the recommendation of the Traffic Safety Committee to ban all parking on the north side of Valley Road from Witherspoon to North Harrison. The dissenter was Committeeman Maurice F. Healy, Jr., who expressed concern for the safety of Valley Road children.

The Council of Community Services sent a letter asking Committee to bring before the State Public Utilities Commission the position of the Princeton Water Company on fluoridation.

The Company has "challenged the competence of local government," the letter said, adding that the State Health Commissioner, Roscoe Kandle, has assured the Council of his assistance.

Committee asked Township Attorney Gordon Griffin to confer with Borough officials on the matter, and took the letter under advisement.

Choir May Go To Seattle

Princeton's High School Choir, which has already sent a regretful "no" to the University of Washington's invitation to sing at a Seattle World's Fair Wehern Festival next summer, may find itself in Seattle after all.

Several individuals and business firms have said that they would like to contribute toward the $14,000 the Choir needs to make the trip. As the result of this interest, Thomas Hilbish, director of the Choir, has asked the University of Washington for a week's stay of decision, hoping that other offers will come in.

Mr. Hilbish and the Borough Board of Education had declined the invitation because nobody's treasury has the $14,000. Indications of support for the Choir followed publication last week of a story announcing the invitation and the financial problems involved.

SCHOOL SITES SET

In West Windsor. Four school sites in West Windsor Township were accepted for the Township's Master Plan last week by the Planning Board following a brief hearing.

The sites are: the present Dutch Neck school; ten acres next to the present Penns Neck school on Route One, for potential expansion, a future site in the Princeton Junction area on Clarksville Road, and approximately 35 acres on South Post Road.

Warren R. Cook, member of the Master Plan Committee, pointed out that according to the 1930 census, 12 percent of the Township is under 5 years of age, and that the municipality must plan ahead to take care of these children as they reach school age.

The sites chosen by the Committee are all close to populated areas, Mr. Cook said. If circles were drawn around the sites, he told the Planning Board, the only areas not covered by two-mile radius circles would be areas in the industrial zone. One-mile circles would overlap in many areas; Mr. Cook said.

There are no options on any of the properties, and no commitments on the part of the Township, Mr. Cook told the Board. The land is reserved only for one year, and owners will not be permitted to develop it during that period.

The South Post Road site has been proposed as a possible recreation area as well as for a school site. It borders on Assunpink Creek.

Each site has had percolation tests, Mr. Cook said, and the results are good. Water supply is probably adequate, too.

TWO MOTORISTS FINED

In Traffic Court. Two Princeton drivers were fined in court Monday by Magistrate Theodore T. Tams, Jr. for traffic violations.

They are Jonathan M. Jay, 22, of The Great Road, and Gunnar Asker, 56 Greenhouse Drive. Mr. Jay was fined $25 for speeding and Mr. Asker, $15, for failing to obey a traffic officer's signal. Mr. Asker pleaded not guilty.

FAMILY PROGRAM SET

By YM and YWCA. The Princeton YM and YWCA will sponsor their annual Hanging of the Greens program on Sunday at 4 in the Y Center. A family supper will follow.

The Rev. W. J. Beeners, chairman of the speech department of Princeton Theological Seminary, will present a Christmas reading. The creative theatre unit of the Pre-Teen Club will present a Christmas pantomime entitled "Cinderella."

The Junior Choir of First Presbyterian Church will sing Christmas songs and lead general carol singing. Mrs. Mary Krimmel will direct.

Fair Warning

When icy cold winds
Begin to blow,
The mercury shouts
"Look out below!"

—CUMMIN DOON

As the beginning of winter draws near, the thermometer is taking early-morning dips below the freezing point with considerable regularity. But the Man had good news for those who don't like it cold.

December is scheduled to be somewhat milder than usual, he reported. The next few days will see the thermometer average several degrees above normal. Rain is a possibility this weekend, probably Saturday.

CUBAN ART SHOWN

In Princeton Library. A print from the largest woodcut ever made is on display in the Princeton University Library. The print is part of the first exhibition of Cuban art in the United States since the Castro revolution.

It is entitled "Patria O Meurte" (My Country or Death) and measures 14 feet long and four feet high. It presents a symbolist interpretation of the history of revolution in Cuba, according to Gillett Griffin, curator of graphic arts.

"Patri O Meurte" is one of four prints in the exhibit. The others are "Vinceremos" (We Shall Be Victorious), "Carta Del Tirano" (Letter From a Tyrant) and "Memorias De Las Sierra Maestra" (Memories of the Eastern Sierra Maestra.)

All four prints were given to Mauriee Zeitlin, a 26-year-old Princeton sociology instructor, by Ernesto "Che" Geuvara, Cubaq minister of industries. Mr. Zeitlin, who was in Cuba last summer doing thesis research, held a two-hour interview with the Cuban leader. At the end of the interview Geuvara gave the prints to Mr. Zeitlin.

O'BRIEN REPLACES ASHBY

In Princeton Administration. Dr. George D. O'Brien, assistant professor of philosophy, has been appointed assistant dean of the college at Princeton University. He will replace Philip H. Ashby, who will return to teaching and scholarship in the department of religion.

Dean Ashby has held the post since February, 1959. Dr. O'Brien's appointment will become effective in February, 1962, and he will serve for four years. Dr. O'Brien will work with J. Merrill Knapp, dean of the college.

Dr. O'Brien has been a member of the Princeton faculty since 1957. He was graduated from Yale in 1952 and received his doctorate from the University of Chicago where he was a Carnegie Teaching Fellow.

GALLUP IS CHAIRMAN

Of Rhodes Committee. Dr. George H. Gallup of The Great Road will serve as chairman of the 1961 New Jersey Rhodes Scholarship selection committee, which will meet next Wednesday, December 13, to select two nominees. The New Jersey candidates will be among 12 nominees from the Middle Atlantic District. Four out of the 12 will be chosen as Rhodes Scholars by the district committee at the conclusion of interviews December 16 in Baltimore.

Bruce McClellan, headmaster of The Lawrenceville School, is secretary of the New Jersey committee and will also represent the state on the Middle Atlantic district committee. Also a member of the New Jersey committee is Professor James H. Billington of Harvard, currently a Hodder Fellow at Princeton University.

A total of 32 Rhodes scholars are selected each year from the United States. They enter Oxford the following October and stay for two years. They are given a stipend covering ordinary expenses and also allowing for a certain amount of travel.

"PEACE RACE" URGED

Signatures Asked. Dr. and Mrs. Peter Putnam, 46 Roper Road, have agreed to serve as coordinators for a "Peace Race Committee for Princeton," it was announced this week following a luncheon meeting at which a group of Princeton citizens discussed the "Peace Race" concept.

A national "Peace Race" group, led by Norman Cousins, Clark M. Eichelberger, the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick and David Riesman, among others, has been formed to urge support for the ideas pressed by President Kennedy in his September speech before the United Nations.

These ideas include general and complete disarmament under effective international controls, and world-wide law and law enforcement through the UN.

According to its spokesmen, "Peace Race" neither supports nor objects to bomb shelters nor does it petition for an end to nuclear testing.

Rather, say its spokesmen, it seeks to rally popular support behind the Presidential statement in the hope that such support will help to transform the statement into a positive American policy.

Dr. and Mrs. Putnam will seek signatures in Princeton for a petition which will be presented to President Kennedy early in February.

DEER OVERTURNS CAR

Driver Not Hurt. Jerome Shatzkin, 293 Riverside Drive, escaped injury Monday night when his car turned over after it struck a 200-pound deer.

Mr. Shatzkin was driving along Route 130 near Kuser Road, Trenton, when the charging animal rammed the side of the Shatzkin foreign car and turned the vehicle over. The deer was killed, but Mr. Shatzkin was unscratched.

Report from THE MAYOR

Transition. At Monday night's agenda preparation session of Mayor and Council at Borough Hall, Mayor-elect Henry Patterson and Councilman-elect Alan Carrick joined with the present governing body in a two and one-half review of pending borough business.

It is one of the strengths of our American system of democratic self-government that the decisions of the electorate can be translated smoothly and peacefully into a continuing program in the public interest. There will be major differences, to be sure, in the approach, the point of view, and the programs of the outgoing and incoming administrations; but there is no rancor and no hard feeling.

This is as it should be. And at Monday night's session, it was obvious that the transition had begun. One significant item on which work must be done in December but which involves decision making in January and beyond is the 1962 budget for the Borough.

On this the Mayor-elect must now begin work with key Borough staff members. He can be assured of their full cooperation just as each mayor in turn has counted upon the dedication and the skill of Borough staff in all departments to serve faithfully the elected members of the municipal family.

Loitering. At the request of the Borough police and the Public Safety Committee of the Council, an ordinance will be introduced on Tuesday to "put teeth" in the definition of "loitering." It would appear that the proposal is a response to an increasing tendency on the part of some folks—particularly teenagers—to gather on street corners and to "annoy" some people.

The ordinance may give the police some new power to deal with this; but it should be recognized that mere arrest is not a solution to the underlying problems. Princeton, like other towns, must face realistically the fact that for many youngsters the period of transition to adulthood is a most difficult adjustment.

For many who have finished school or dropped out, the ties of school, of family, and even of religious faith may have weakened. A concerned community will, it is hoped, want to do much more about these youngsters than to face the facts through police action.

The answers are not easy ones. We all share a responsibility in finding constructive solutions for the problems of which the annoyance of loitering is only a symptom.

Friday Open House. The regular weekly "Tell It To The Mayor!" sessions will be held on Friday, December 8, and on Friday, December 15, from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. No appointment is ever necessary for these informal meetings.

Last week's session brought renewed expression of interest in the much-needed traffic signals at the Bayard-Avalon intersection. The state highway department has twice in recent weeks rejected our requests for the safety measure, even though we have offered to use Borough funds for the installation.

Meanwhile, another "improvement"—the paving of Walnut Lane between the Borough and Township—showed signs of developing into a new traffic hazard unless vigorous steps are taken to curb speeding and limit parking to one side.

Topics Of The Town

CALL SANTA CLAUS!

Henry Schultz On Duty. The Woman's Club of Princeton has arranged for Princeton's Santa Claus to have his own telephone this year, and beginning Monday Henry Schultz will have a North Pole extension at WA 4-3883. Calls should be made between 3 and 6 p.m. only, through Christmas Eve and including Saturday and Sunday.

Mr. Schultz, Santa Claus for the past 12 years, is 76 years old, and has been blind for over ten years.

LIBRARY DEDICATED

Wing of Wilcox Hall. A "house" library, comprising one wing of the University's new Wilcox Hall, was dedicated Saturday. Named for Julian Street, who lived in Princeton for 15 years, the library will be used by the 180 Woodrow Wilson Society members and the 262 undergraduates living in the new dormitory quadrangle.

Mr. Street, who died in 1949 at the age of 68, sent his son, Julian Street Jr. '25 to Princeton, and encouraged many undergraduates, including Graham Mattison '26 who gave the funds for the library and an endowment for books. Mr. Mattison spoke about Mr. Street at the dedication ceremonies.

A gourmet and author of books on wine, food and travel, Mr. Street wrote a play with Booth Tarkington, "The Country Cousin," and a novel, "Rita Coventry," which was made into a movie.

Students are allowed to smoke in the library, which is open from 1 p.m. to midnight every day during the academic year. Nearly 5000 volumes are available, and 1000 will be added each year for the next five years. Mr. Mattison, an international banker with the New York firm of Dominick and Dominick, provided the money for these books, and his endowment will enable the library to purchase several hundred more each year.

WHAT'S ON THE AGENDA?

For Borough Council. Two controversial questions involving public parking will be considered when Borough Council meets next Tuesday night.

Council will hold public hearing on the ordinance to acquire the 21 Park Place property in the Nassau East parking area and will introduce the ordinance to meter the Tulane West ("Lamplighter") parking lot on a two-hour basis.

Council will also authorize an appropriation to make a stream profile of the Borough portion of Harry's Brook.

Borough police and Council's Public Safety Committee have asked for an ordinance which would sharpen the present definition of loitering, and Council will introduce such an ordinance on Tuesday night.

In other police matters, Council will act on the resignation of Patrolman Richard J. Panicaro and appoint a replacement to the force as Chaneeman. The Traffic Safety Committee's report on bicycle safety will also be considered.

Mayor-elect Henry Patterson and Councilman-elect Alan W. Carrick joined with Mayor and Council Monday night for the agenda meeting. Pending items of business were discussed, and several were placed on the January agenda to allow enough time for legal and technical work.

Mr. Patterson has already begun work on the budget preliminaries for his 1962 program.

MRS. AMES CHAIRMAN

Of Bryn Mawr Book Sale. Mrs. Oakes Ames of 200 Harrison Street is chairman of the 1962 book sale, held by the Bryn Mawr Club for more than 25 years. Last spring's sale gained $3203.17, which was used for scholarships to three girls, Carol Armstrong and Katherine de Grazia, both of Princeton, and Margaret Kersey of Pennington, a senior.

Mrs. Fitzhugh Boggs, district councillor, and Miss Margerty Peterson, alumnae secretary, spoke at the club's meeting last week, held at the home of Mrs. Lyman Spitzer.

What to Buy, For Whom and How Old?

For the youngest: Allen's painted wooden mobile (clowns or animal train) to hang above a crib.

Toddlers: Thorne's Child Guidance toys, like the add-a-scale, or the snap-couple plastic railroad.

Five or so: Creative Playthings' smoothed planks and dowels to use for building a real house you can stand up in.

Eight to Ten—Male: Urken's arsenal (biggest in town, probably) with guns by Parris ("it smokes"), Ideal ("shoot forward and backward"), Daisy ("it bangs"), Mattel ("it's safe") and others with equally thrilling promises.

Eight to ten — Female: Stuff 'n Nonsense's natural "Baby Dear" doll with bent knees, upcurling toes, realistic hands and face, loosely jointed, cuddly body.

About 12 — Male: Mall Camera's science center with lab. equipment and chemicals, microscope, glassware, and no nitroglycerin.

About 12 — Female: Zinder's Electric Food Center with blender, mixer, ice cream maker and automatic timer.

Early Teens—Male: Kesler and Bellis' "Summit," the top-level game of global strategy or the three-dimensional action game called "Life."

Early Teens — Female: Bellows' brand-new Bill Atkinson dress collection, especially the green velvet princess party dress.

Late Teen—Male: Tiger's Lionel Electronics lab; "make your own burglar-alarm system."

Late Teens — Female: Princeton's Gift Shop's real holly leaf made into a gold Christmas pin.

holly. It is in the 3-6 size range, and totally irresistible.

So is a white challis-like orlon smock dress with green smocking and an embroidered red cherry.

Yes! Too old for that? Too young for sub-teen? Look at the gingham shirtwaist in nylon sheer, red and white, with red taffeta sash, or the green velvet jumper with colored discs on the white organdy puffed sleeves.

Nassau Shoe Tree provides gold flats to wear with all this finery, and even a sedate black pump with a HEEL. For the very young, there are black patent Mary Janes, some with detachable straps, some with a broad instep strap which has a new look.

Nassau Bootery has girls' party shines in red velvet, no bigger that a petit-four, or black ones with embroidery on the vamp. Hulit has a patent with strap, or a very seductive red leather.

At Robert Hall, a size 3-14 may have a red or royal velvet lavishly trimmed with lace, for $5.95 and $6.89. Up the size scale, 7-14 can be dressed like a queen in a sleeveless dress of "brocade" tembossed cotton with a short jacket trimmed by a band of white fur. There is a diamond buckle, too, $5.29.

I'll Take Anything. Aside from party clothes, what else can we give these demanding young ladies?

Allen's suggests a white orlon cardigan with pastel, pearl-centered flowers appliqued on the yoke, $6.98, or a Shetland-style cardigan or slipover.

Angeline reminds you of the smock vogue with a checkerboard print in blue or maroon and white, with rick-rack trim and big pockets and pants to match (sizes 1 6x).

The Atkinson line at Bellows includes green velvet slacks ($12.95) to wear with a powder blue smocked skirt or a calico cissy shirt. A velvet pleated skirt is fashioned with the A-line.

Below this sub-teen size group, Atkinson sends Bellows a 7-14 group of Christmas red velvet with red and white stripes.

A similar group uses blue velvet and stripes for a slacks-skirt-shirt group. Ask any 7-14 about that myrtle-blue cape with striped lining. $29.95)

In the sweater collection, Bellows has a brushed orlon in blue of white with a cowl-cuffed neckline and co-ordinated slacks in cotton knit 7-14.

A raccoon purse (on one side) snaps shut on young vanities. It's $12.95. A tortoise shell handle gives a good grip for a little leather purse just big enough for lunch money. It's $2.95.

Robert Hall's favorite sweaters for girls is a $1.89 Scandanavian knit overblouse. A boat-neck cardigan in orchid or green and white, has been made of vertical bands of fluffy orlon. Over-sweaters and cardigans here are about $2.89 for a large collection.

Allen's sweater is an "Irish" knit of natural wool, with buttons down the front and a turn-over collar. Bulky sweaters are for turtles or crew, whichever you choose.

For Leisure. Assuming you would like to give lingerie to a young princess, look at the long tricot gown and peignoir at Bellows, made of palest pink nylon trimmed with ruffled cape collar. A mother-daughter pair here is blue with paper-doll border made, for some unknown reason, out of Italian newspapers.

A lounging pajama set at Bellows has white eyelet top and red cotton pants, and a red flannel gown reads "Outen the Lights" across the yoke.

Imagine a size 3 pink orlon sherpa robe with no collar and elbow sleeves. Goes up to 14, which is equally enchanting. A brushed orlon robe in pink, has lace to enhance its enchantment. $8.95 at Bellows.

Toddler lounging pajamas (ever know a healthy toddler to lounge? Lunge, maybe . . .) at Allen's have red Capri pants and a ruffled top the size of a handerchief. $4. Up to 14. Red flannel gown has its own pair of panties.

Robert Hall's paisley robes are $3.69, and there are corduroy ones bound with gold for the same price. A sheer nylon tricot, just like mother's, has a sheer chiffon scarf. Pastels.

Robes of orlon fleece, at The Clothes Line are made for 4 to 14 in red with a yoke and gathered fullness. This is a washable coat-style.

Angeline, in Hopewell, has a nylon negligee set, sizes 8-14. There are long pants and a bolero toy in pale pink with lace trim and an applique of rosebuds around the buttonholes. Negligee matches.

From Kung Ping, of course, you choose Japanese kimonos in quivering floral prints, mostly turquoise or coral red. Button-down pajamas in cotton are $2.95, "Happy Coats" in white rayon with solid black border and "good luck, long life" characters in red and black, are delightfully different Christmas presents. Either girls or boys, really.

Little slippers from Hong Kong have a tracery of embroidery on the toes of blue, black or red velvet.

Hulit's girls' slippers are pastels, moccasin style, with white fur ruffle.

Tussy, at Thorne's makes a large collection of cosmetics for young girls. "Budding Beauty," the name of the group, contains such femininities as hand lotion, toilet water and afterbath powder in a set.

Or those, combined with powder mitt and bubble bath in a larger set, packaged in pink gingham. For $1.35, there is toilet water with a very exciting atomizer. Watch out for that one!

Lipstick and refill are available in Budding Beauty, too, and there is Lipstackle, a stacked stick with three "luscious flavored pomades" in various shades, for $1.50.

Revlon makes a nail kit especially for teen-agers, and what could be better for a young nailbiter? Has oils, removers and two shades of polish in a leather container. All at Thorne's.

THE VERY, VERY YOUNG Stuffed, to Cuddle. Clayton's has small squidgey toys like the zebra in black and white plush for $3.95, and the Steiff monkey in green and brown and the Teddy that's made for the washer, unless he's the musical one, and dedicated to "Rockabye Baby."

Plush, zippered pajama bags at Clayton's are pink or blue, with rabbit or pup on the top. Clothes Line's pajamas bag is a triangle of plush like Santa. Yarn angels, yarn Santas, and Tom and Jerry ($2.95) in felt and plush at Clothes Line.

Kesler and Bellis has a black velvet cat with red satin ears, glitter eyes and diamond necklace and Thorne's has a red velvet fox with jeweled collar, plump tail, and an up-to-no-good look.

Thorne's poodles ($4.98) are pink, peach and white, dyed to match your Thunderbird. There is also a zoo of tigers, pandas and dogs, all washable. We like Foam-aire's dog with flopping ears and a pert outlook on life. He's a Gund and non-allergenic.

Snuffles, at Thornes' has a washable plastic face and the Gundikins have plastic faces to show they are Mickey, Minnie, Goofy and the rest. Washable (foam with terry) toys are Thorne's great contribution to the season: dog, doll, elephant.

Country Mouse's favorite stuffed toy, is, of course, a felt mouse, either skiing or dressed for sailing.

Catch Me If You Can. Bellows has a gingerbread baby, 20" tall, or only 9 inches, flat and brown with yellow outline trimmings. An unusual addition to the stuffed family. A purple plush cow keeps him company.

Stuff 'n Nonsense has a baby burro with an elastic ribbon that keeps him on the bounce when you hang him over a crib.

Allen's has a great white polar bear, and lots of stuffed miniatures.

Dress the youngest for Christmas in Clothes Line's red stretch pants with smock of red corduroy and white snowman. . . Kesler and Bellis' red corduroy plastic-lined pants with white eyelet top. . . Angeline's velvet suit with short pants, two-button vest lined with cotton print to match a shirt.

JUST PLAIN OLE PLAY Have Fun. Toys that neither educate nor excite are sometimes the most fun of all. Begin with Kung Pings' fish-wind chime, made of wire frame, filled with gay colored glass pieces that tinkle, or the wild and windy Japanese box kite made to sail its colors into the blue. The "dreamscope" shows you its changing colors, the little apple top spins and spins and spins. . .

One Bell, Two Bells . . .

Our favorite customer of the 1961 Christmas season is a young man we met in The Country Mouse one crowded Saturday.

His mother, off browsing somewhere, had left him to his own amusement, and he was standing before the pair of kegs in which Country Mouse keeps its collection of sleigh-bells.

One keg holds the big ($.02) bells, and the keg right next to it holds the little (penny) bells. With sober mien and a most commendable attention to detail, the young man was taking little bells out of their keg and carefully putting them into the keg with the big bells.

We bet he's Country Mouses's favorite customer, too.

Stuff 'n Nonsense leaps to the Jumpette from England, a marionette on elastic strings, with foot-loose feet. Puppets from Spain are a horrifying witch with white hair, a golden-haired angel (pluck her wings and she's a baby-doll) or a devil with a red heart.

Creative Playthiugs sells you a pound of painted wooden animals, houses, trees and buildings. . . Country Mouse offers the same, in little bags.

Paak-Paak, the Couutry Mouse duck, waddles his two inches for only $.59, keeping pace with a two-inch jumping frog and chick For $.98, you can have Noah and all the ark in a slide-top box, and for $.50, a painted wooden rocking horse, two inches high.

A paper-mache parrot, one dollar, is a sophisticated addition to Country Mouse. He has a cow and cowboy for friends.

Brinkmanship. Shuco, from Germany, sends to Stuff 'u Nonsense those cars that go just to the edge of the table, theu turn about. Some respoud if you blow ou the top or speak into the top. Oue operates by remote coutrol. $6 or $3.50, depending on complexity.

Deft little fingers will turn to Stuff's loom from Sweden, $15 or $5.95, authenic to the last shuttle, complete with yarn. Brother will make a cuckoo clock "Uhreubankasten," which means get in there and make it yourself, bud Cuckoos at Stuff are $5 to $8.

Thorne suggests, for younger craftsmeu, the TicToy Clock consistiug of 25 pieces which you cau take apart aud put together. It runs, it's colored, it's time-consuming. You want more?

For the uimble, or otherwise, we are enamoured of Stuff's magnet set. This is a fascinating collection of shiny (chrome?) pieces, all maguetized. There are oblongs, triaugles, rods, discs, all in one-inch scale. With them you make anything your fancy indicates, attaching the pieces only by their own magnetism. Plastic roads have been iucluded in case you don't want a certain pair of shapes to connect. You can eveu make a dangliug chain of balls, joined only be magnetic attraction. Any age can play with this one, we did.

Whose Turn? Games might include the $95 chess set at Kung Ping, with ivory men and teak box that opeus into a hoard, or the $6.95 set whose men are stylized Japauese dolls. The board folds to make the storage box.

Sumi sets for painting are at Kung Ping, and standard western-style paintiug sets are at Photography and Art.

Oil palnting sets at P. & A. are $2.50, $8.75 and in between as well. Watercolors start at $.85 for a set, but you can get watercolors in tubes to make up your own set. For $4.50, there is an Eacto knife kit in wooden chest wth eight blades and three kuives.

Mall Camera has Winsor aud Newton oils and watercolors, brushes, cauvasses and paiot boxes. If you have painted a picture to give for Christmas, look at Mall's frames in wood, leather or metal. Albums or folders will hold photographs or small watercolors.

For another hobbyist, The Knitting Shop suggests knittiug bags iu brocades of rose aod gold or silver, formed like satchels, pouches or tote bags, all liued with solid color in contrast. We liked a black oue with Christmas roses all over it, but the brocade stauding bag ou its gold frame is extremely haudsome. (Geared to stand high or low.)

To Hold A Stitch. A case for needlepoint work is 16 iuches deep, opeuiug out to a 32-inch long pauel with a pouch for your work, and wide loops to hold the yarn.

For knitters or crocheters, there are needle cases, fitted to plain. One, iu a Roman striped rep, is loug and narrow like the new pocketbooks, and will hold needles of any length.

To work on, The Knitting Shop has Munrospun separates from Scotland, $21.50, with heathery yarns and tweeds to knit aud sew. Modern needlepoiut pattterus will make pillows, traditional patterns like graudfather's clock or childreu at prayer, will make hangiugs.

For rug makers, the Shop suggests pre-cut yarn in a rug kit for $13.75 and up, depending ou size and so on.

Cheese! Camera fans will find, at Photography and Art, everything from Brownies (Super 27, $18.95) on up. We like the idea of $1.95 to $5.95 8 aud 16 mm films to show at home: Abbott aud Costello, W. C. Fields, cartoons, westerns.

Polaroid's J66 will take anything, any time. The Polaroid 900 electric eye comes iu a kit with filter, close-up lenses, timer, wiuk light and two rolls of film in a case for $159.

Argus' Matchmatic kit with flash and case is $59 aud Yashica's automatic with meter and built-iu flash is $49.95. A 1.9 model, also automatic, is $64, with case,.

Iu movies, Kodak's 8mm automatic electric eye is $44—a fiue home camera (with zoom, $89). Nikkorex' automatic 8 mm is $79, and the Kodak Motormatic is $89

Photography and Art also suggests binoculars from $30 up to the Bausch and Lomb $200 for bird-watchers who want to keep an eye on the chicks.

Mall Camera has "Gadg-it Bags" with side pockets, zippers and compartments for everything. The sub-miniature Japanese camera is $31.95, so small you ueed binoculars to find it. Mall suggests, for addicts, flash guns from $7.95, light meters from $7.30, and dark-room accessories without limit.

Look for the Tower, Big and Blue

Creative Playthings, known to schools and teachers for the imaginative excellence of its pre-school and school equipment, has branced into the retail field, and is offeriug its materials to the Christmas shopper from the showroom located on the Hightstown Road.

Here, iu a pleasing modern building set in a woods, you will find such excitements as Maria Montessori's own mathematical games (beads arranged in teus to cube or to plane; smooth wooden weights uested in a long wooden bar; woodeu fruit halved, quartered, thirded) and the rock 'em boat that seats four, even in a rough sea, and splendid wooden trucks, cars and trains, some almost two feet long, all sturdy enough to cope with nursery-age children.

You will like the autoharp, too, aud the xylophone that goes up like a staircase, and the floor-model abacus in a giaut frame that stands almost three feet high.

Drive as though going to Hightstowu, but watch for a squat blue water tower on your left aud the RCA Space Center and Edinburg Road. Can't miss.

Wedding Lore

by

Edna Preston

The bridal veil is symbolic of the privacy of married life, but to the bride-to-be it's her last chance for concealment. Ever after, she is an "open book" to the man she chooses. Every bride is just as secretive about the dress for the occasion and we "aid and abet" her with the largest collection of unbelievably beautiful dresses, made to sell for $200 and more, but yours for prices from $39.95 to $125. Your secret, too, can be insured because your selections is made in the complete privacy of my bridal house. For a personal appointment, just call Trenton, EXport 2-6060.

Projection screens, beaded and silver lenticular, tripods starting at the pocket type and going on up like a telescope—all are welcome presents for a photographer.

G E's Loft-a-Lite is a quartz movie lamp with sealed beam, giving one light instead of many. Has a pistol grip for tripod or stand and is small, light and useful.

We shall conclude this exposition of toys, hobbies and leisure time pursuits wth the little cricket cage from Kung Ping. It is $.65, small and according to Kung Ping, "very useful for children who collect catarpillars."

Topics Of The Town

PAIR FINED $420

In Confidence Scheme. Two Levittown residents were fined a total of $420 by Township Court Magistrate James S. Hill on charges of attempting to take money under false pretences.

Gilbert L. George, 26, and Dennis Hall, 24, Levittown, were charged with posing as disabled war veterans and soliciting money which they claimed was to be used to secure their release from a veterans' hospital. George and Hall were fined $310 and $110, respectively. Both pleaded not guilty.

DIAMONDS AND A HORSE'S MOUTH: Is a girl justified in having her engagement ring appraised? No, say Sam Kind, owner of La Vake's Jewelry Store and Mrs. Marshall Metzger, a sales clerk there. For other opinions on the issues of trust, ethics and insurance, see below.

Question of the Week

Question: Is a girl justified in having her engagement ring appraised?

Where asked: Palmer Square.

Mrs. Richard E. Utman, Cherry Brook Drive, artist: No, I cant see any profit in it. A ring is a token of love, not a symbol of future wealth or future standard of living. A girl is not accepting a ring, she is accepting a person and a whole future life together. I just can't see where it would have any bearing on it.

Dr. Thomas E. Rooay, Chicago, chemical research manager: No, I don't think so. It's a pretty commercial type gesture, as if she didn't believe in who gave it and the sincerity of the motive behind it. I don't think it is a matter of whether it is a one-karat, two-karat, or dime store ring. The true value is the meaning and the promise implied, rather than the amount of money spent on it.

Mrs. Marshall Metzger, 79 Model Avenue, Hopewell, sales clerk: No, I don't think she should. I don't think she should question her future husband. I think she should feel that he spent what he could afford to spend. I believe most fellows spend what their pocket will allow on something like that. The important thing is the thought behind it, not the cost.

Samuel Kind, 151 Abernethy Drive, Trenton, owner of La-Vake's: No, for several reasons. If someone gave her a nightgown or a bathrobe, would she go and have it appraised? The same is true of an engagement ring. It is a gift to be recieved and should be accepted as that. If she wants to insure it before she is married, the insurance could come through her own family policy. As far as how much the ring should be insured for, they should trust the jeweler from whom and thinking about my coming marriage that its monetary value would have no significance. My only concern would be that it was properly insured, if it were valuable. But I would leave the question of proper insurance in the hands of my fiance.

Charles Quino, 12 Charlton Street, retired taxi owner: No, I think a girl should be willing to accept it without going in to find out how much it is worth. The way I look at it, she should consider herself fortunate to get one in the first place. We have more women in this country than men.

Mrs. Dorothy Palmer, Cleveland, housewife: Of course. I think she should know how much it costs. I think I'd die out of curiosity if I didn't know how much my engagement ring cost. Never to know if it were just a piece of glass or not.

Alfred Butterfield, Upper Hall, Lawrenceville School: I think it all depends on the relationship existing between the boy and the girl. Some relationships may call for an appraisement.

Miss Beverly Gutshall, Westminster Choir College, freshman: No, I don't think so. If she really likes the guy, she isn't going to care whether the diamond is big, small, or made out of plastic, for that matter.

Martin Creasey, Upper Hall, Lawrenceville School: No, I think it is a vulgar, thoroughly irrelevant step, cheapening the whole affair.

Miss Janet Thorseo, 21 Pine Street, chartist for Gallup & Robinson: I think if she is going to have it insured, she should have it appraised but I don't think the value of an engagement ring would matter much to me.

sured for, they should trust the jeweler from whom they bought it to suggest the proper amount.

Mrs. Robert Dilley, 80 Stockton Street, housewife: It would never occur to me. I would be so excited about getting one

Kent Kinney, 108 Stockton Street, member of the Theological Seminary faculty: An engagement ring is an expression of a young man's love and its value can only be appraised in terms of his love. No matter what gift a man chooses to express his engagement, either by a ring, necklace or a pin, it should be valued for the affection these two people feel for one another.

Mrs. Salvatore Balestrieri, Monmouth Junction, housewife: No, after all, everyone has a different amount to spend on an engagement ring and to have it appraised would embarass a fellow. It isn't what he spends for the ring that counts, it's how he feels about the girl. I think girls feel the same way; I know I did.

R. Bayly Winder, 40 McCosh Circle, assistant professor, Princeton University: My answer be, "No." It's overly materialistic.

Miss Anne Crimmins, Lawrenceville Road, governess: Where I come from, in Ireland, the girl goes with the boy and they both buy it together, so they know what it costs. It's always done that way there. That's what makes it so interesting in this country—a boy goes out and buys a ring and the girl doesn't even know anything about it. I think that's nice; I like the idea. It's more romantic. I would accept the ring for what it is meant to be. It would never come into my mind to have it appraised.

Miss Katherine T. Norris, 32 Chambers Street, secretary: Definitely, because it has to be insured.

George Melvin, Hamilton Square, technical assistant for Western Electric: I would say no. I consider an engagement ring no different from any other gift. If someone gave you a tie, you wouldn't go out and find out how much it cost. An engagement ring is a gift of admiration more than anything.

Mrs. Richard Macgill, 131 Westcott Road, housewife: Absolutely not! It puts it too much in the category of gold-digging. It's too materialistic; it takes the romance away from it.

Mrs. Joan Vandermark, 2661 Main Street, Lawrenceville, secretary: No. I don't think it is the value, it is what it stands for that is important.

Lee Rowman, The Lodge, Lawrenceville School: The price of an engagement ring should have no bearing on a girl's opinion of it. I don't think it is a good idea to have it appraised. It's useless. The price has no bearing on her being engaged or not being engaged. The thought behind the ring as contrasted with the price is of the utmost significance.

Miss Marian Ljungberg, 16 Newlin Road, domestic: Of course not. A fiance will spend as much as he can afford. If he is rich, he will buy a more expensive ring. If not, he will give what he can. I wouldn't want to know how much my engagement ring cost.

WE DANES—AND YOU MANNERS

A Chapter on Our Mode of Speech and Our Social Etiquette both frequently amazing but quite well-intentioned.

TWO WORDS crop up a great deal in the Danish language. One is "I" and the other "Thank you." People say "Thank you" when they get their ticket in a bus or a train. They say "Thank you" when they are given their change. When they buy anything in a shop they say "Thank you" at least three times. Variations of "Thank you" are "Many thanks," "Hearty thanks" and "A thousand thanks." The two latter are used more particularly if you really mean it.

When you are invited out to a Danish house you begin by saying "Thank you for inviting me;" go on to "Thank you for the food" when dinner is over; and at the next meeting rush out with "Thank-you-for-the-last-time-we-were-together."

These "thanks" are usually accompanied by a prolonged and hearty handshake, which must in any case be given on arrival, on departure, and after dinner or any kind of meal.

At parties guests are introduced to each other and shake hands all around. The hostess or the host or the guest themselves mumble their names indistinctly and nobody hears what is being said so the evening slips away in finding out who is who and who is married to whom. The sensible thing to do is to listen in the first place—or to ask the person to whom you have just been introduced to repeat his or her name. This will ensure more time for eating and other activities.

They were commissioned by Look magazine for a series of articles which appeared in the magazine over a period of three years.

OFF TO NEW YORK

On Suburban Transit. The bus service between Princeton and New York, operated by Suburban Transit of New Brunswick, was expanded this week to include half-hourly service on Sundays. Several months ago, the line increased its daily and Saturday schedule to include half-hourly departures in both directions during the week and on Saturday between 7 a.m. and 10:45 p.m., with 11:30, midnight and 1 a.m. buses from New York.

The holiday schedule includes hourly service in both directions. Complete timetables are available at Cox's Store, 182 Nassau Street, the Cities Service Station, Princeton Shopping Center and TOWN TOPICS. Cities Service was set up as a ticket agency and terminal about two months ago, and buses now leave from the service station rather than the west side of Bamberger's. Other stops in Princeton include Palmer Square and Cox's.

TECHNICAL AID GIVEN

To Indonesian Student. Daniel O. Dommasch of Blawenburg, the author of three textbooks in aeronautical engineering, has received a request for technical assistance from a student in Indonesia.

Liong Wai Choong wrote Mr. Dommasch last week, asking for copies of the author's books. Writing from Bandung, he said he was working as an automobile mechanic during the day and studying aeronautical engineering at night.

MARKETING DIRECTOR: Thomas A. Brown of 24 Balsam Lane has joined Designed For Living, Inc., as director of marketing.

He said that Indonesian libraries do not have Mr. Dommasch's books and that universities in his country do not offer training in the field. "Because of poverty, I am not able to pursue my education in the United States," Mr Choong wrote.

Mr. Dommasch mailed a copy of "Airplane Aerodynamics" and has asked his publisher to forward "Elements of Propellor and Helicopter Aerodynamics" and "Airplane Aerodynamics" to Mr. Choong in Bandung. Mr. Dommasch, who is president of Dodco, Inc., of Blawenburg, has brought this request for technical assistance to the attention of President Kennedy and other officials of the federal government.

COOK RECEIVES PRIZE

For TOWN TOPICS AD. A classified real estate advertisement placed this fall in TOWN TOPICS has won for Edmund Cook and Company third place in the New York Times competition for the best classified real estate advertising carried by a New Jersey real estate agent.

The award will be presented this Saturday at the state convention of the New Jersey Association of Real Estate Boards in Atlantic City.

The ad, written by William Stewardson of the Cook office, described a Lake Drive home which has since been sold to a resident of Los Angeles who is moving to Princeton to join RCA.

COMPANY WINS AWARDS

Princeton Printing Honored. In a contest open to all printing firms in the United States and Canada, Princeton Printing won awards for its direct-mail pieces illustrating "firsts" in the history of printing.

Princeton Printing won second place in the category of advertising campaigns and honorable mention in the category of individual pieces. It was one of nine winning firms from a slate of hundreds.

Awards were based on originality, quality of printing and effectiveness of the whole campaign. Paul D. McConaughy, marketing manager for the firm, directed the program and accepted the awards, which were presented by the Printing Industry of America.

Individual pieces for the promotion were executed by the Princeton Printing art department under Paul Kush.

DEFENDING CHAMPIONS: Princeton's basketball team will seek to retain the Ivy League title it has won for the past two seasons. The five starters are Art Hyland, Jack Whitehouse, Captain Al Kaemmerlen, Bill Haarlow and Pete Campbell. All but Haarlow were regulars last year.

SPORTS In Princeton

IT'S ARMY DAY SATURDAY In Hockey and Basketball. The first busy weekend of the winter sports season will bring Army teams to Princeton in two sports. The cadets will face the Tigers in hockey Saturday at 2 and in basketball at 8, with the home forces seeking revenge in both instances for defeats sustained last season at West Point.

The first swimming meet of the season is also on the schedule. New York University will open the campaign for Coach Bob Clothworthy's team, which appears to be stronger than any Princeton entry in the sport in almost a decade. The meet will take place in Dillon Pool at 4:30, preceded by a freshman meet at 3.

McCandless in Charge. As he did last winter so successfully, Jake McCandless has again stepped unexpectedly into the difficult task of replacing Cappy Cappon as Princeton basketball coach. This time, the emotional impact caused by the popular, fascinatingly-able coach's death will make the job much more difficult. Few men could accomplish the transition smoothly; it is a foregone conclusion that the soft-spoken, highly-regarded McCandless will.

Initial proof of his ability to handle a tough pinch-hit assignment came last winter, when he guided the Tigers to the Ivy championship after Cappy's first heart-attack benched him in mid-January. McCandless wrapped up the title before the season ended, went on to bring Princeton its first victory in history in NCAA competition.

Last Saturday, he was in charge at Easton, Pa., as the Tigers came from behind on several occasions in the first half, dominating action throughout the final 20 minutes to record a 63-53 victory over Lafayette, always tough to trim on its home court. As might be expected, four Princeton starters were in double figures Pete Campbell, 17; Art Hyland, 15; Captain Al Kaemmerlen, 14, and Jack Whitehouse, 11.

After a see-saw first half which saw the visitors take a 29-27 lead at the intermission, Campbell and Hyland combined for 22 points in the final period to engineer a commanding lead. By the time the 14-minute mark of the second half had been reached, the victors had a 56-45 margin and a three-minute freeze wrapped up the decision.

As may often be the case this season, the Tigers were in potential trouble when Kaemmerlen had to be withdrawn in the second half after being charged with his fourth personal. Jim Day, a 6-6 sophomore, came off the bench—the only substitute to see action.

Villanova was on the schedule this week in the home opener. Following the Army game, the Tigers will play two tough road contests, against Temple next Wednesday and Navy on Saturday.

invaluable scoring punch provided by Johnny Cook and a topflight performance in the goal by junior Billy Hill combined to give Princeton an upset victory in its first hockey game of the season. The Tigers topped a normally high-scoring Middlebury sextet, 3-1, Saturday on the Vermonter's rink.

Hill rode the bench most of last season while Barry Van Gerbig rounded out a three-year career in the nets, but he had been an eye-catcher in his freshman season. Against Middlebury, he kicked out 43 shots—20 of them in the hectic final period.

Princeton got only 21 shots on target, but three of them found the mark. The first was credited to a varsity newcomer, sophomore Gerry Skoning, who's skating on the first line with Cook and Jim Hyland.

The Tigers took the lead as early as 2:10 of the first period on Skoning's goal, were tied at 5:10 of the second round and then broke the contest open on Cook's fine performances. His first was recorded at 9:42 of the final round and was followed by an insurance goal only a minute and a half later.

RANGERS WIN
In Benefit Hockey Game.

The first professional hockey game played in Baker Rink's four decades was won by the New York Rangers last Wednesday. The Broadway Blues topped their farm team, the Providence Reds of the American Hockey League, 3 to 1.

Staged to raise funds for the New Jersey Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, the game was a charitable success. It will produce an estimated $5300 for the fine program of prevention and cure being carried out against these crippling diseases.

Hockey-wise, the contest occasionally approached mechanical perfection but the give-and-go that punctuates pro hockey games being played for keeps was missing. The play patterns were picturesque; beleagured Ed Giacomini, Providence goalie, stood off Ranger pressure well and the veteran Gump Worsley made several stabbing saves in the Blues' cage, but many in the crowd of about 1000 had hoped for a closer duplication of big league hockey.

The Rangers led throughout, taking a 1-0 lead 58 seconds before the first period ended on a shot from behind the cage by forward Ted Hampson which bounced off a Providence defenseman into the cage. Three and a half minutes into the second period, a sharp thrust by Irv Spencer was likewise partially deflected by the Reds' defense, but skipped into the nets.

Providence narrowed the margin at 18:45 of the same round, Stan Baluik beating Worsley on a 15-foot backhand flip. A 3-on-2 break late in the final round produced the Rangers' last goal, Andy Hebenton faking Giacomin nicely after a blue-line pass from Guy Gendron.

Indicative of the relatively leisurely pace of the action was the number of penalties: two. Much of the evening's financial success was credited to the Rangers' willingness to break precedent by staging a game for charity for the first time, and by their generosity in meeting their own expenses.

Hank Large, starting left end on the Princeton football team for the past two seasons, was named this week to the All-Ivy team for 1961. Columbia and Harvard dominated the selections, the Lions placing five, the Crimson four with Dartmouth's quarterback Bill King rounding out the 11 choices.

Barry Schuman, Princeton junior, was named as an end on the second team, while Greg Riley, starting tailback for the first half of the season until he was injured, received honorable mention. Tim Callard, Tiger guard, was likewise included in this category.

PHS VS. HIGHTSTOWN
In Basketball Opener.

The Princeton High School basketball team will open a 19-game schedule Friday at 7 when it meets the Hightstown Rams at Hightstown. The Little Tiger five will open at home Tuesday, opposing Freehold High School. The game will start at 3:30.

Should Princeton High beat the Rams, it will have equaled the number of games it won all last season. Hamstrung by an overriding lack of experience at every position, the Blue and White posted one of its worst records in school history, losing 16 of 17 games.

For PHS coach Tony Borzok, the outlook this year is much brighter. This in spite of the loss of four varsity players, including last year's high scorer, who were expected to return. The top point-getter, Jerry Gil Fisher, is out for academic reasons; John Kowalski, who improved steadily throughout the season as a sophomore, has moved away; starter Jim Mitchell switched to Lawrenceville and will face his former teammates on Valentine's Day; and Jim Norris failed to come out this year.

The outlook remains bright despite this exodus because Borzok still has six players on his squad who now possess that irreplaceable asset, experience. That valuable commodity has already made itself evident in pre-season scrimmages against Morrisville, Mount Holly, Pennington and New Brunswick. Against Pennington, the Little Tigers, who rarely scored more than 50 points a contest last year, hit on 56 percent of their shots. Even Borzok, who prefers to remain noncommittal about such things, admitted that his team "looks better than it did last year."

Borzok now has paired his squad to 12 players—seven seniors, two juniors and three sophomores. Six of the 12 saw action last season and five of them comprise the probable starting lineup for the Little Tigers on Friday. They are: John Bensinger, center; Hank Schmidt and Charles Pemberton, guards; George Tucker and Dan Brown or Don Truesdell, forwards. Tucker and Schmidt are juniors.

In reserve of this sextet are three seniors and three sophomores. The seniors include Bennett Johnson, Ken Bernhardt, and a promsing 6' 2½" transfer student from Wayzata High School, Minn., Daryl Knodt. The sophomore contingent is led by football stars Don Cooper and Larry Madden and John Barbour.

HUN OPENER WEDNESDAY

Against Pingry Five. The Hun School basketball team, coached by Dan Barren in his second year with the Red and Black, will open a 15-game schedule Wednesday when it meets Pingry at Pingry. Co-captains of the Hun quintet are Princeton's Gary Grover, sharpshooting guard, and Jim Byer of Trenton.

The 15-game campaign includes home and away contests with Bryn Athyn, Germantown, Solebury, Moorestown, George School and Pennington. Single games will be played with Pingry, Tower Hill and Admiral Farragut.

The schedule: Dec. 13, Pingry, away; 15, Bryn Athyn; Jan. 10, Germantown, away; 12, Admiral Farragut, 17, Solebury; 20, Moorestown, away; 31, Pennington.

Feb 3 George School, away; 6, Bryn Athyn, away; 9, Germantown; 13, Tower Hill; 16, Solebury, away; 19, Pennington, away; 21, Moorestown, and 28, George School.

Deer Season to Open

New Jersey's annual six-day deer season will open on Monday. During this period, hunters may take only bucks.

Wednesday, December 20, will be "open day," when both does and bucks may be taken. No hunter can legally take more than two deer.

If one deer is shot with a bow and arrow, then an additional deer may be shot with a gun. No hunter, however, can legally kill more than one with one weapon.

Sue Jamison and Alice Furniesen won their age divisions for 4-H Club classes. Top winners during the day were Gail Lynn Asay and Barbara Ulrichsen, both of Red Bank.

NEW POST CREATED

Associate Dean Named. Dr. Ernest F. Johnson, professor of chemical engineering at Princeton, has been named to the new post of Associate Dean of the Faculty.

His appointment will become effective next July. As Associate Dean, Dr. Johnson will help with plans for the University's future educational operations and will work with the Dean of the Faculty, Dr. J. Douglas Brown, in coordinating curriculum, staff and policy matters that affect the University's academic program.

The Dean of the Faculty is the senior officer of the University after the President, and has administrative oversight, under the President, of the departments of instruction and all matters pertaining to the faculty.

A research investigator and design engineer, Dr. Johnson received his bachelor of science in engineering degree in 1940 from Lehigh and joined the Princeton faculty in 1948.

He holds a Ph.D from the University of Pennsylvania where he was, for two years, a research fellow in the thermodynamics research laboratory.

At Princeton, he is studying the thermodynamic and transport properties of fluids, at the Forrestal Research Center and will continue to teach and do research while pursuing his new responsibilities.

OPEN HOUSE HELD By Pennington School. A new, $250,000 dining hall and kitchen was the occasion for an open house that will be observed at the Pennington School Sunday.

The new facility, designed by the Ballinger Company of Philadelphia, has a capacity of 375. In addition to the main dining area, there are areas for employees, a unit for faculty and student meetings, and a wide patio. Exposure on two sides of the building is mostly glass.

Other school facilities that were open for inspection by the public Sunday include the new faculty lounge, the Sparks Memorial Library, the restored Shaw Memorial Chapel, and the infirmary with new wings completed this fall.

Mr. Thompson noted that Congressional appointments or geographical quotas for the Academy do not exist. Minimum requirements include a high school diploma, 17-22 years of age by July 1, 1962, and excellent physical condition. Present high school sen-

Jefferson Plumbing continued to lead the Women's Industrial Lague with 74 points. Gale Cleaners (65), Ideal (63) and Decker's Dairy (60) rounded out the four front-runners. LARGE, CONNER HONORED

At Football Banquet. Henry W. (Hank) Large received the Poe Cup and Andrew J. (Andy) Conner the Caldwell Trophy on Monday at the annual Princeton University football banquet.

The Poe Cup, highest award the university can bestow on a football player, is given annually for general excellence. The Caldwell Trophy is awarded for demonstrated improvement and effort.

Large, a native of Spring House, Pa., was a starting end last year as a junior as well as this season. Conner played guard as a junior and was switched to tackle this year. He is from Erie, Pa.

TEAM CAPTAINS NAMED

At Hun Sport Banquet. Captains for the 1962 football, soccer and cross country teams of the Hun School were named at the school's annual Sports Award Dinner.

Elected co-captains of the '62 Hun football eleven were Doug Gillespie, who alternated between the tackle and guard positions, and Owen "Hap" Young, a defensive back. Pete Spiller, a guard from Lawrenceville, was awarded the Hun coaches' award given to the player showing the greatest desire to improve.

Chosen co-captains of the cross country team were Bill Coleman and Al Murray. Frank Black of Princeton won the cross country Murray Award. In soccer, co-captains elect are Pete Jacob and Edward Lopez. C. A. Hale won that sport's coaches' award.

FUTURE IS CLOUDY

For H.S. Football Leagues. With the increase in the number of high school football leagues in the state, Princeton High School, an independent, has found it increasing difficult to fill a suitable schedule among teams in the surrounding area.

To overcome this, Princetoo High applied early this fall for membership in the South Central Jersey League. The league was composed of six schools from Burlington County and three — Hamilton, Ewing and Steinert—from Mercer County. Now it appears that Burlington County, which is in the midst of a rapid population increase, will soon have enough schools to support a league comprised solely of Burlington elevens.

Already the six Burlington schools have given evidence that they wish to withdraw from the South Central circuit. If this occurs, it certainly would mean the end of the league. PHS athletic director Joseph Jingoli admits there is no more Central League, although, officially, the school is still waiting to hear on its request for league membership.

Despite the breakup, Jingoli reports that Princeton High "will be all right for '62." He indicated that PHS has signed contracts with five schools to date and three more pending. In 1960-61, the Little Tigers played a truncated, seven-game schedule.

The logical outcome of the upheaval would be the formation of a Mercer County League. Coaches in the county met Tuesday to discuss such a possibility. If realized, the Mercer league would probably contain the three Central League castoffs and Trenton High, Trenton Catholic, Notre Dame, and Princetoo. Two future members could be Cathredral—if TC divides into two schools — and St. Anthony's, making it a nine-team league.

WINNERS ANNOUNCED

In Dog Training Class. The dogs of five area residents were among the winners of the fall training class of the Princeton Dog Training Club in Miss Fine's School's gymnasium.

They are: Mrs. Irene Hensen, Bound Brook, with a Boxer; Mrs. Mary S. Weeden, Lawrenceville, with a Welsh Corgi; Mrs. Jean Hut, 66 Grover Avenue, with a Miniature Poodle; and Mrs. Walker Stevenson, Jr., 12 Library Place, with a mixed breed — all beginner's class. George Brent of 440 Walnut Lane was the winner of the intermediate class with a Labrador Retriever.

A new beginners class will start January 12. Information mey be obtained from Mrs. Walker Bleakney at WA 1-6986 or from Mrs. Fran Austin at WA 4-5012.

OPENING WIN POSTED

By Flying Fish Swimmers. The boys' team of the Princeton YMCA Flying Fish opened the new season Saturday with a convincing 114-67 victory over the Newark YMCA. The girls started off on the wrong foot, however, in dropping an equally lopsided meet to the Montclair swimmers, 114-58.

For the boys, Carlos Batista placed first in the 13-14 age 100-yard freestyle and 50-yard butterfly. Other firsts were recorded by Matt Tweel, Richard Van Kirk, Greg Young, Chuck Petzold, Ken Higgenbottom, Mark Hoffman and George Good. In all, they captured 12 first places in 22 events.

In the face of tough competition from Montclair, the girls captured only seven firsts in 20 events. Winners for Princeton included Gail Blattenberger, Jennifer Clinton, Linda Cazin and Jacqui Linder.

DIVING MEET HELD

At Princeton YMCA. Four divers of the Princeton YMCA's Flying Fish Club finished in the first three places of competition in an Age Group AAU Diving Meet held Saturday at the YMCA pool on Avalon Place. The meet was organized by Roy Clinton Princeton coach.

Jacqui Linder placed first in the 15-16 year old event, in the girls' competition. Jennifer Clinton placed second and Dorothy Messerol, third, in the 13-14 year old class. George Good placed second in the same class for boys.

CLINIC POSTPONED

For One Week. The YMCA basketball clinic for 6th, 7th, and 8th graders, originally scheduled to be held December 2, will be held Saturday morning at 10 in the High School gym. Following the clinic, the players will be organized into teams and will start league play immediately.

Pete Campbell, Princeton University guard, will conduct the clinic. He will be assisted by Ross Hamachek, Robert Carlisle and Robert Haserot, University Y leaders.

Field House Ground-Breaking Monday

The Caldwell Memorial Field House, which will filt a vital need in the University's athletic facilities, will be started Monday. Groundbreaking ceremonies will be held at a site southeast of Palmer Stadium (picture, page 3.)

Contributions from several thousand friends and admirers of the late Charles W Caldwell assured an earlier start on the building than had at first been planned. A portion of the University's current $53 million campaign will also finance the structure, which will cost approximately $1,200,000.

Two and a half stories high, the field house will have overall dimensions of 165 by 101 feet. It will contain dressing rooms for varsity and visiting teams, with complementary features such as training and equipment rooms, lounges and rooms for coaches and officials. Matthews Construction Co. of Princeton will be the builder.

Numerous honors fell to Charlie Caldwell during his highly-successful coaching regime here from 1945-1957. His undefeated football teams won the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of eastern supremacy, in 1950 and '51.

He was named "Coach of the Year" in 1950 and recipient of the annual award of the Touchdown Club of New York in 1952 for his contributions to the sport through the years. This week, he was one of ten new members inducted into the National Football Hall of Fame — the only one to be posthumously honored.

Obituaries

Franklin C. Cappon, 61, of 12 East Stanworth Drive died November 29 of a heart attack. Dean of the Ivy League basketball coaches, he was beginning his 24th year as a member of the Princeton athletic staff.

His many associates, as well as those who were acquainted only with his reputation as a highly-successful basketball coach, knew him as "Cappy." A fine influence on the many generations of undergraduates with whom he came in contact, he was recognized in basketball circles across the nation as a coach who invariably made more out of his material than seemed feasible.

In the past 12 years, his Princeton teams won five championships and finished first on two other occasions, resulting in playoffs. This is a record unmatched by any other college in the league.

His coaching ability and the respect in which he was held by his colleagues resulted in his election several years ago to a year's term as president of the National Association of Basketball Coaches and to membership in the College Basketball Hall of Fame.

Mr. Cappon came to Princeton in 1938, after having coached at Luther College, Iowa; the University of Kansas and at his alma mater, Michigan. He was a member of the Class of 1924 there, and a quarter-century later was made an honorary member of the Princeton Class of 1924, a distinction in which he took great pride.

At Princeton, Mr. Cappon served as football line coach under Elton E. "Tad" Wieman; helped guide the U. S. Navy's physical fitness program from 1942 to 1946; and then returned to become end coach during the regime of the late Charles W. Caldwell. He relinquished his football duties last fall to concentrate on basketball.

Mr. Cappon is survived by his wife, the former Henrietta Van Putten of Holland, Mich.; a daughter, Mrs. Mary Muller of Plymouth, Mich.; a son, Franklin C. Cappon Jr. of Hamilton Square; and six grandchildren.

The funeral was held in the Princeton University Chapel, followed by cremation. Arrangements were under direction of the Kimble Funeral Home.

For St. Elizabeth Alumnae. The Trenton Chapter of the St. Elizabeth College Alumnae Association will entertain members and friends at a Cocktail Party to be held Sunday evening at 7 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Farrell of 8 Canoe Brook Drive, Princeton Junction.

The Chapter will meet again on Monday at 8 p.m. at Frenking Florist, 1900 Nottingham Way, Trenton, to see a demonstration of Christmas floral arrangements by Mrs. Rosalie F. Burrows. Mrs. Walter Wilson of Hamilton Square is chairman of the meeting.

CHRISTMAS PARTY SET

By Faculty Wives. The Junior Faculty Wives of Princeton University will hold their annual Christmas party next Thursday at 8:30 in Madison Lounge. Carol singing and a wassail bowl will highlight the evening.

New toys and clothing, wrapped and marked, will be welcomed in lieu of an admission charge They will be distributed to the needy families in Princeton by the Department of Public Welfare.

GERMAN XMAS TOPIC

Of Garden Club Meeting. Mrs. Hans Heyler of Morrisville, Pa., will speak on "Christmas in Germany at the next meeting of the Lawrenceville Garden Club, to be held Tuesday at 1:30. Mrs. Joseph Bevis of Main Street will be hostess.

VASSAR IS GOAL

Scholarship Funds Announced. This year's Vassar Club Scholarship Ball earned $1578.37 for the scholarship fund of the Vassar Club of Central New Jersey.

The money is used each year to send a central New Jersey girl to Vassar, and this year's amount is more than was raised last year. A student from Lindcroft holds the current scholarship.

FUND PLANS FESTIVAL

As Foundation Feature. The third annual United Festival of Song, staged for the past two years in October under the auspices of the United Fund, will be held instead on February 7 and 8.

The postponement has arisen from the Fund's decision to set up a permanent endowment program to be known as the Living Memorial Foundation. The Festival will be designed to provide funds for the new Foundation, whose community purpose will be outlined in the near future.

Herbert Hobler, creator and producer of the annual Festival, has announced that the February program will again present the Columbus Boychoir, the Westminster Choir, the Princeton High School Choir, the Nassoons, the Opposite Sextette and The Palmer Squares.

In addition, Mr. Hobler will recreate songs from last year's Princeton productions of "Guys and Dolls" and "The Mikado" with members of the original casts.

He also expects to obtain as master of ceremonies, a nationally-known entertainment star.

Previous Festivals of Song have received wide acclaim. In 1959, the program was carried on a coast-to-coast CBS radio network, and Mr. Hobler and the Princeton United Fund were honored by the National United Funds and Councils headquarters.

KENNEDY SIGNS BILL

For Wilson Memorial. A memorial to Woodrow Wilson will be studied by the new Woodrow Wilson Commission which came into being last week when President Kennedy signed into law a bill sponsored by Senator Harrison A. Williams in the Senate and by 18 Congressmen, including Representative Frank Thompson, in the House of Representatives.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, widow of the wartime president, was present wheo Mr. Kennedy signed the measure. Mrs. Wilson, who will be 89 this Sunday, accepted from Mr. Kennedy the pen he used to sign the bil, saying as she did so, "I didn't dare ask you for it."

After signing the bill, Mr. Kennedy read a brief statement about the Commission saying, in part, "We have a continuing commitment, in the words of President Wilson, to the service of humanity. His life, his actions, and his ideals serve as an inspiration today to the achievements of the goals that he articulated so well more than 40 years ago."

The commission will make recommendations on the proper form for a memorial to Woodrow Wilson.

SECLUSION PLUS CONVENIENCE

It's a rarity to find such country atmosphere (peace, quiet, trees, winding brook at the end of a permanent cul-de-sac) so conveniently located (a few steps from the bus line or, for the energetic, actually walkable to town.)
